Boat Fire Victim?

Boy's Body Washed On Beach

By JACK FRY

MYSTERY of a fire-gutted outboard boat found off Ten Mile Point Wednesday took a gruesome turn last night when the body of a two-year-old boy was washed ashore in the vicinity.

If police establish a link between the death of the unidentified boy and the burned boat, it suggests that tragedy also may have befallen the child's mother and father.

Body of a boy with "almost Indian facial characteristics" was washed ashore near the foot of Vantreight Lane at St. Margaret Bay in Gordon Head.

LOOKED LIKE DOLL

It was found shortly after 5 p.m. by R. J. Bishop, 4831 Vantreight, who was strolling along the beach. "I thought it was a doll," he said.

Only theory advanced at press time was Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson's opinion that an Indian family may have been crabbing when a pitch-pot in the bow upset, causing extensive damage to that part of the 16-foot craft.

FIRE IN BOW

Indian chiefs in the Greater Victoria area agreed that Indians frequently light fires in the bows of their boats while crabbing in shallow water.

David Elliott, a former chief of the West Saanich Reserve, said he saw a photograph of the boat Frankie M. in yesterday's Colonist and was of the opinion it came from somewhere between the San Juan Islands and Port Angeles on the American side of the Strait.

MOTOR IN WELL

The outboard motor was attached to a well in the floor of the flat-bottomed boat instead of the stern. It is a common position in Washington, British Columbia Indians seldom mount a motor in that manner, he said.

The Colonist immediately telephoned a description of the boy's clothing to the U.S. Coast Guard search and rescue centre in Seattle, where a spokesman said further checks would be made from the American side.

BOAT ADRIAT

The partially-burned boat was found drifting off Ten Mile Point at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday. RCAF search and rescue officials in Vancouver said they first learned about it at 6:15 p.m. the same day, when the Colonist called for information.

The official was concerned that search and rescue had not been notified during the morning. "You know there could have been someone clinging to a log or floundering about wearing a lifejacket," he was quoted as saying.

DEAD COUPLE DAYS

The child's body was taken to Sands funeral home.

Chief Pearson said the boy appeared to have been dead for "a couple of days—not long."

The child's skin was white but it had a "wide, flat face, almost Indian characteristics," he said.

Girl Loses Arms To Savage Shark

MACKAY, Australia (UPI)—A 10-foot-long shark savagely mauled a man and an 18-year-old girl yesterday in shallow waters off this resort in east Queensland.

The couple was only 12 feet from shore when the shark attacked. An eyewitness said the shark made three rolling assaults.

Steffen tried to beat off the shark while holding on to the girl. A friend, Graham Jorgensen, raced from the beach into the water, pushed the shark away, and helped Miss Hobbs out. Steffen was able to walk out of the water despite his state of shock.

A 22-year-old man who lost his left leg in a similar attack by a shark 10 days ago died on Christmas Eve.

Vatican Qualifies Church Unity Idea

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, commenting on the recent assembly of the World Council of Churches, said yesterday Christian unity can only be realized through a Catholic-type hierarchy presided over by an infallible authority.

This front-page comment was the first authoritative Vatican statement on the assembly in New Delhi. World Council membership includes major Protestant and Orthodox churches.

L'Osservatore said the New Delhi meeting had drawn up a definition of Christian unity that "constituted a real progress" but remained "a still far-off ideal."

In its definition of unity, the World Council said unity is made clear when all who are baptized and believe in Jesus Christ unite in common prayer and in a Christian community.

UN Troops Fired On From Mine

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A report detailing accusations that the Union Miniere mining complex in the Congo's Katanga province allowed its installations to be used for attacks against United Nations personnel in Elisabethville was made public Thursday at UN headquarters.

The report, from the chief UN officer in the Congo, Dr. Sture Linner, said UN troops were fired on by mortars and machine-guns from several places on Union Miniere property, including the hospital.

The fire was attributed to the report principally to "a hard core of non-African extremists and mercenaries... anxious to avoid coming within the reach of criminal jurisdiction."

Soviet Child Hailed For Ignoring Parents

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The well-behaved Soviet child is the one who tells his parents firmly that the Communist party and government are the ones who really care for him.

The party newspaper Pravda yesterday reported on a speech made before Premier Khrushchev and some 2,700 "ideological activists" attending a Kremlin conference.

The speaker, children's writer Sergei Mikhalikov, reported with evident approval that the father of a five-year-old boy told his son that he behaved badly and never listened to his parents.

Mikhalikov said the lad retorted: "It is not you who cares for me, but the party and the government."

The speaker added: "He was only five but he listens to the radio and watches television. And being a child, he absorbs everything he sees and hears like a sponge."

Gold Line Tour

EDMONTON (CPI)—Edmonton cabbie Bill Lyche, who took an impetuous lady shopper on a tour of the city, was offered in payment—and finally took—a visit of what the woman said was gold.

Sure enough, the suggestion in the tube assayed at more than the $24.00 cab fare.

Ideals Of UN Took Beating

BERWICK-ON-TWEED, England (AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home said Thursday the United Nations is facing a "crisis of confidence" which could lead to its destruction. But he emphasized that Britain will work "to save an organization in which so many of the hopes of men reside."

The foreign secretary's address was marked by a stinging attack on the voting practices of some of the new members of the world body.

Lord Home noted that four countries (the Soviet Union, Ceylon, Liberia, United Arab Republic) opposed a Security Council resolution condemning the Indian attack on Goa, and added:

"The significance of such action is this. Whatever the provocations suffered by India or the excuses made by her or for her, there is no doubt at all that her actions were a direct breach of the charter and of international law."

WITHOUT NAME
Yet despite this, the foreign secretary said, several countries voted publicly "and without shame in favor of the use of force to achieve national ends."

Doctors Boycott Medical Board

SASKATOON (CPI)—Dr. H. D. Dalglish of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said yesterday the provincial government has been trying for months to get some doctors in the province to serve on a proposed medical care insurance commission.

Dr. Dalglish added that the CCF government has been unsuccessful so far.

NO VOLUNTEERS
Dr. Dalglish said that many doctors in the province had been approached to sit on the commission which would administer the medical plan proposed by the government. He said none of them had accepted.

Dr. Dalglish said it would be surprising to him if any had accepted in view of the sentiments they expressed this summer when the college members voted almost unanimously to have nothing to do with the government plan.

He said the college has not directed any of its members to refuse to accept a request to sit on the commission. He said any member was free to do so if he wished but that he did not expect any would.

Dr. Dalglish added that the CCF government has been unsuccessful so far.

Victoria Cross For Sale

LONDON (Reuters)—An anonymous hero is offering for sale a Victoria Cross, the commonwealth's highest award for bravery in the field.

A personal ad in the Times of London Thursday said simply:

"V.C. for sale—1839-45—most exclusive, must go to private collector."

'Gunboat Policy' Irks Iraq

LONDON (UPI)—A wartime-like blackout shrouds the mission and movements of a British task force sent to the Mideast despite growing convictions here that the urgent operation had averted a new crisis over Kuwait.

The government of Iraq, which long has coveted the oil-rich sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf, protested to the United Nations against what it termed Britain's "traditional gunboat policy."

Iraqi Foreign Minister Hashim Jawad, in a letter sent to United Nations headquarters in

New York, said the "aggressive movements" by the British threaten the peace and security of the Middle East. He charged the concentration of planes, troops and warships in the Persian Gulf was designed to maintain Britain's "position of political and economic domination of the region and of protecting its illegitimate imperialistic interests" there.

The British foreign and defence ministries refused to comment on the military movements. An aircraft carrier, two frigates, a tank landing ship and 3,000 men were dispatched from Kenya and other British bases in a Christmas alert of units of the strategic reserve, Britain's highly mobile trouble-shooting force.

Observers noted that the movement came after Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem repeated claims that Kuwait belonged to Iraq.

Kuwait was granted independence by Britain last June. Two weeks later British forces poured in by air and sea after Kassem threatened to invade the tiny country which provides Britain with more than 50 per cent of its oil.

Frozen River Traps Swans As Winter Glazes Europe

By The Canadian Press

Much of Europe and North America shivered in snow, ice and freezing temperatures Thursday.

Britain shivered in the cold, with December temperatures of the last 11 years and thousands of persons came down with influenza.

The Thames River froze over at several points upstream from London, doors were shut on trains of the subway system, and water pipes burst in many parts of the city.

MILD VIRUS

Doctors, harried by calls to treat flu cases, assured patients it was a mild form of the disease caused by what is known as virus B.

London had its lowest December reading since 1950—29 degrees.

The Severn River at Shrewsbury was frozen and a flock of unwary swans was trapped in it. Inspectors of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals chopped some of the birds loose, but many swans died.

In the north of England thick fog added to the general confusion, forcing airports to close and making road travel hazardous.

Dutch air force planes began an airlift to the isolated coastal island of Ameland after thick pack ice prevented boats from reaching it. Other islands off the Dutch coast were nearly isolated, with ferry boats jammed in drift ice and unable to approach their moorings.

Most canals in northwest Germany were frozen.

BRIDGE WRECKED

Floodwater following heavy rains wrecked a bridge at Sansepolcro di Romagna, near Rimini in northeast Italy.

In the United States, heavy snows fell on much of the east while stiff cold gripped the Midwest.

RCAF Pilots War 'Spectators'

OTTAWA (CPI)—After years of training, an RCAF jet fighter pilot may never get a chance to press his firing button, even under war conditions.

The button probably would be pressed for him by remote control from the ground. This is only one—and far from the major—advantage of a new communications system in the air defence system known as Data-Link.

Data-Link probably represents the greatest advance in the interceptor business since the discovery of radar.

RCAF headquarters said Thursday the RCAF's 66 CF-101 Voodoo jet interceptors are being equipped with Data-Link. One squadron of super-sonic CF-101s is already operational and the other four will be in full readiness by the end of next summer.

Under the present—and much too slow—system of intercepting hostile aircraft, operators at radar stations plot manually target aircraft and friendly interceptors and their information is transmitted by voice through radio from the ground radar station.

The largest number of interceptors a radar operator can handle at one time is five with this system.

Data-Link can channel information to 300 interceptors every 15 seconds.

Data-Link has been made possible through the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) electronic control system.

By means of Data-Link, this information is channelled to the cockpit of the interceptor.

where a series of numbers understood by the pilot are displayed.

The pilot merely follows the commands shown in front of him by the Data-Link receiver to reach his target.

Once the interceptor is close enough to target, its own radar "locks" onto the target aircraft for the final few miles of the interception and the kill by rocket or missile.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Ringworm, a nasty skin disease, can be cured by a new pill discovered in Britain.

It is an antibiotic named griseofulvin, which the patient swallows. It makes its way into the bloodstream, and from there to the skin, where it kills the fungi that are growing there—a kind of microscopic mushroom garden.

The medicine itself is made from a fungus. According to British Information Service,

"griseofulvin is a product of a green mould found, for example, on the skin of rotten oranges."

Discovered in 1939, it has been used against fungus diseases in plants. Now, mysteriously, the scientists have learned that the stuff is good against ringworm in people.

May Remain Untold

How did they find this out? British Information Service does not tell us.

Was it a case of a brave scientist hazarding his life to conquer the scourge of ringworm? Did the experimenter deliberately give himself ringworm by rubbing cheeks with an infected mouse, and then swig down one chemical compound after another just to see whether any of them would do any good?

Or was there a laboratory hand who just happened to contract ringworm, and had the habit of moving from one test-tube to another, sampling the contents—until by a happy coincidence he guzzled a flask of griseofulvin? Or did he just happen to bite into a rotten orange?

This little drama of medicine may remain untold. I doubt that they will ever make a movie about the discovery of a cure for ringworm. However, it is good news, all the same.

Ringworm is no joke. I caught it at least twice as a child, from fondling cats, and it made me come out in unpleasant itching blotches.

A Social Disgrace

Far worse than the physical annoyance of ringworm, however, was the shadow of moral shame that went with it. Somehow I got the feeling that it was a social disgrace to catch ringworm; that the disease implied uncleanness.

As a matter of fact, it seems to me that there was a certain amount of disgrace in catching anything.

People spoke of tuberculosis in hushed tones as some people speak of cancer now. Out there in the dark world, all kinds of germs—from leprosy to barber's itch—lay waiting to feed upon the unwary.

This wasn't long ago, comparatively speaking. Some of these much-feared diseases had already been conquered, or were on the verge of defeat. And yet, much of the old horror and disgrace clung to their names.

Then times changed dramatically. Almost every year brought news of some victory over a dread disease. Some cures came so rapidly that doctors learned about them from the Reader's Digest in their own waiting rooms.

Ringworm is the latest one to go. I won't miss it.

One-Sided Histamine Headache Cured by Injecting Small Doses

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wonder if my trouble is a histamine headache. It is always on the left side, close to my eye. It occurs about once a week and the eyes appear reddened.

These nearly always begin at night and continue until the afternoon. If it is a histamine headache, are injections necessary for each attack, or could it be cured completely? — Mrs. E. H.

That's a good description of the histamine type of headache—one-sided, localized behind the eye, eyes red and watering, onset of the attack coming at night. The headache is the body's reaction to its inability to tolerate the release of histamine by the body's cells.

The treatment is a desensitization process—injection of very dilute amounts of histamine so the system can develop more tolerance. Then the amounts are gradually increased until full tolerance is reached.

You do not have the injections at the time of each headache.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 14-year-old daughter who uses so much black pepper I'm sure it will harm her. When she has an egg you can't even see it for the seasoning.—Mrs. J.L.

Your daughter has a distorted sense of flavor. Probably she'll get over it—and it's not unlikely she's using more pepper than she really wants or likes, just because you tell her not to.

Tell her people who know their way around in smart restaurants are very careful not to use too much seasoning because it destroys the true flavor of good food.

Dear Dr. Molner: May I have some information on leucorrhea? Is there any possibility of permanent cure? — Mrs. A.K.

Most certainly a possibility. It depends, however, on find-

DURBAN (AP) — Burmese officers and seamen of the freighter Pagan have voluntarily confined themselves to their ship in Durban harbor after being embarrassed by South Africa's racial segregation laws.

Officers and men told reporters: "We've never been so humiliated in our lives."

Some of the Burmese are dark-skinned, some fair. When they go ashore together the "whites" are accepted in restaurants and places of entertainment while the darker ones are refused entry.

The Pagan is scheduled to load in Durban until mid-January.

Names in the News

Brando Takes Slap In Trade for Son

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—Marlon Brando has won court approval of increased privileges to visit his four-year-old son, but lost a brief one-slap "bout" with ex-wife Anna Kashfi as the couple left the courtroom.

Brando was obviously elated, over being allowed more time with son Christian.

Miss Kashfi, who charged in an affidavit her former spouse has ideas "contrary to present established society," was obviously upset by the judge's ruling. She looked toward Brando, who gave no indication of emotion, and said, "That miserable..."

Brando said he tried to give Christian more companionship and "played Indian" and other games as part of his effort to attain "a sense of family unity."

In her affidavit, Miss Kashfi charged Brando "promotes a moral outlook as well as his ideas, which creates fear in my mind regarding the moral upbringing of my son..."

Lineup of Nations Over Goa War Distresses Nehru

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India's Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday that what most distressed him about the Goan operation was the division in world reaction—colored nations approved while the white nations of the West were unanimous in condemnation.

"I do not like it. It is a bad sign."

Nehru, facing cross-examination at a press conference, vigorously defended India's takeover of Goa and two other Portuguese possessions and rejected Western criticism that it conflicted with Mahatma Gandhi's teachings of non-violence.

OPEN COURSE

Asked whether India is prepared to use force to recover India territory from China, he replied: "The use of force is, of course, open to us and should be used by us according to suitability and opportunity."

He disclosed that a treaty of trade and friendship with China is being slowed to lapse next April, and Peking has been informed any new treaty will depend on whether the Chinese change their hostile policy.

The Indian leader said non-violence as a national policy is impossible in the present world, although this does not rule out peaceful methods.

He said he was angered by critics who invoked the philosophy of Gandhi: "People who have not the faintest conception of non-violence."

Nehru denied that the Goan invasion was "cleared" with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, who arrived here two days beforehand for a state visit.

He sent a message to Premier Khrushchev Thursday thanking him for his understanding of India's "motives and ideas."

Dog Packs Apprehend Fleeing East Berliners

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist guards patrolling the "death zone" along the East-West Berlin border set fierce dog packs against East Germans trying to reach refuge in the West yesterday, West Berlin police reported.

At least one refugee from communism was believed to have drowned in the River Spree in an escape bid during the early morning hours.

West Berlin police saw flames and heard the barking of dogs on the border of the American sector district of Neuborn before dawn.

They said Communist police were pursuing several persons trying to get through the barricaded border. The refugees did not get through.

The East German Communist press, meantime, continued to attack Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, who came to Berlin during his annual Christmas holiday visits to U.S. servicemen overseas.

The Red newspapers accused the cardinal of "desecrating" Christmas by his denunciations of communism to American soldiers.

Husband Spirits Children to U.K.

LONGPARISH, England (UPI)—A young English businessman has told how he took his two children from his estranged wife in Canada and flew them back here Tuesday to stay.

Charles Sabine, 27, until recently an oil company executive in Canada, said he went to his 25-year-old wife Susan's Toronto apartment on Christmas Eve and asked to take the children, Lindsay Anne, 6, and Michael, 2, out for the afternoon.

"I drove to Montreal with the children," he said at his parents' home here. "I gave them presents. They have not asked for their mother and are very happy with me. It is much better for them."

Sabine said he asked a Canadian court last month for custody of the children. The case was adjourned until February here.

Shifting Taxation

CONFUSING is a mild description to apply to the series of changes in assessment of property in British Columbia instituted by the provincial government in the last few years. The latest change, approved by the legislature early in 1961 and now having its visible effects in assessments for the coming year, is no exception.

Most ratepayers will be inclined to ask why it was necessary, and probably will receive no very satisfactory answer.

The new formula replaces one which froze land values for taxation purposes at 60 per cent of 1955 prices and building valuations at 60 per cent of 1953 prices, and thus for a brief time gave some stability to assessments. It relates assessments now to current prices, with a limit of 50 per cent. The result is that land assessments in areas where property is in demand are much increased, although building assessments in many cases are decreased to keep the total within the limit. In stagnant and depressed areas, valuations are reduced.

The burden of taxation thus will be shifted to lie more heavily on those who own property in the better areas, and this while it may not be enthusiastically or even understandingly received appears reasonable and generally equitable.

But there is another factor involved in the change of formula.

Land is taxed on 100 per cent of its assessed value, and improvements on 75 per cent. For schools, there is a basic fixed mill-rate to bring in the bulk of the municipal taxpayers' share of standard education costs, as opposed to the provincial share. And a result of the new formula according to published figures is that average land assessments in Victoria are up 9.5 per cent, buildings down 6.8 per cent; land assessments in Saanich up 60 per cent, improvements up slightly; land assessments in Oak Bay up 40 per cent, improvements down 2 per cent, and land assessments in Esquimalt up 55 per cent, improvements unchanged.

Thus it appears that the average property-owner in Greater Victoria, and presumably elsewhere in B.C., can expect to contribute far more this year to the cost of education in the province, barring a decrease by the government in the basic school mill-rate. Here, one is apt to suspect, is the major reason for the change in formula.

If this is the case, the value of the provincial government home-owners' grant is further reduced, and Mr. Bennett's generosity in "giving" the grant—out of revenues collected less painfully—is so much more hollow.

Military Occasion

MILITARY spectacles are always a flippant to local celebrations; that is why tattoos and such-like are so popular. The civic centennial scene will be brightened therefore by the visit next year of the Princess Royal, with an attendant public parade of the regiment which has claimed her as its colonel-in-chief for several decades.

It is part of the royal duty that members of the House of Windsor should be attached to British and Commonwealth military formations, an association greatly prized by the units concerned. It has always been a matter of pride to the Canadian Scottish, for instance, that it should have this direct link with the monarchy, and include in its official title the appellation "Princess Mary's."

The Princess Royal is no stranger to Victoria, for only six years ago she inspected the Canadian Scottish while on a ceremonial visit that embraced another of her Canadian regiments. This time she will present new colors to the local unit, an event that is a regimental highlight and which in this instance will set the seal on the last war battle honors emblazoned on the new regimental color.

This is an occasion long looked forward to by the Canadian Scottish and it coincides happily with next year's civic centennial, which will be all the more memorable because of the royal presence during the celebrations.

The Princess Mary is a quietly gracious lady who commands much respect and admiration, not only in the regimental realm in which she is deservedly conspicuous but in the wider circles of public esteem. She will be doubly welcome next year, for herself and for her attachment to the city's own distinguished regiment of foot.

Shelter Honeymoon

AN ANTHROPOLOGIST has suggested that the United Nations, which is just about bankrupt and half of whose members won't pay their dues, should finance an international system of bomb shelters for newly-married couples.

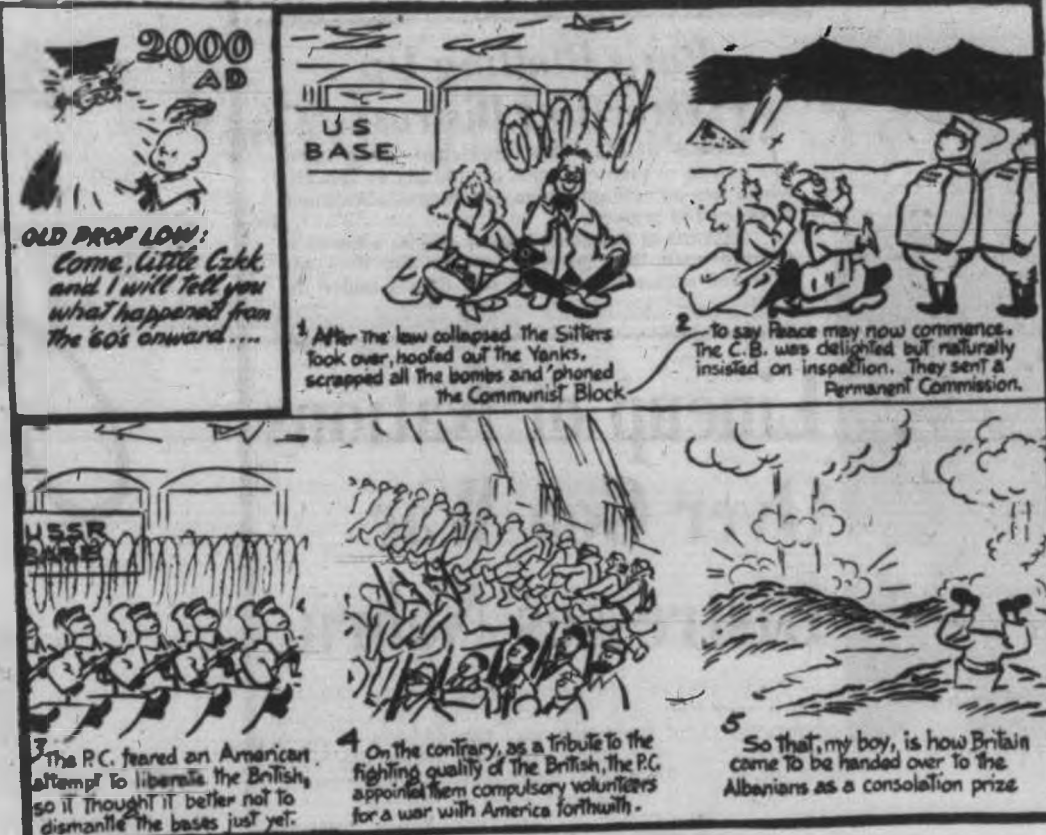

These would be the picked persons in every continent who would "emigrate" from the shelters into the new world, which they would begin to populate again after the nuclear debris had settled to harmless proportions. The idea is that only young people would have the incentive to stay alive.

One had not thought that even in the holocaust of a nuclear war bombs would be dropping in every corner of the globe, and one doubts the UN will be much attracted by this somewhat theoretical proposal. It seems much more feasible that the UN should bend its efforts towards making shelters need-less than that it should admit defeat by building them on a universal wholesale scale for newlyweds.

The practicality of the proposition is also open to question, for newlyweds are widely scattered even in one country let alone in a hundred countries and the gathering of them together, supporting for a minute the young couples' fancy idea, would be literally impossible.

Like most shelter proposals, this latest vastly imaginative one is predicated on an assumption which belies the facts of daily life, viz. that everyone will be close to a shelter, private or communal, when the need for one arrives. And unless a few weeks' notice was given by the bomb-droppers, highly unlikely, the newlyweds all over the globe wouldn't have the chance to gather together and form the cadres of some future civilization.

There is the suggestion that the young married couples should spend a two-week honeymoon in the shelters during the first six months of their marital bliss. One suspects this rehearsal would kill any attraction a shelter might have for newlyweds.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling wox...
By TOM TAYLOR

PERHAPS as an excuse for his own contemplated reveals three nights hence, a reader asks me to explain the term Hogmanay, which I presume you all know to represent the eve of the New Year. Explaining it is not easy, as people are apt to do some queer things in its name. Nor have the pundits done much more than guess at its origin, variously ascribed to Greek, French and Scandinavian influences.

Not that much explanation is necessary; as with the play, Hogmanay's the thing. The custom is to enjoy it as apparently the pagans did, although that injunction is doubtless superfluous. All over town come Sunday night people who couldn't care less about etymology and maybe couldn't pronounce "Hogmanay" will be sampling its flavor with enthusiasm.

My research reveals, nevertheless, among other things, that one assumption ties it to the mistletoe which the ancient Druids gathered for their festive get-togethers. Mistletoe is a parasitic growth which in my innocent youth when I feared to be caught under it the parasite was regarded as a delightfully provocative plant. That is old stuff now, of course. Young people are more sophisticated; they don't need extraneous inducement.

Nor do I remember, even if I grew up in a land wedded to Hogmanay, that children went around from door to door singing "Hogmanay, trolloley, give of your white bread and none of your grey." I was usually in bed, with the field left wide open to the adults.

The grown-ups are the real revelers, and I suspect they always have been. They are the heirs to the Druids and the Scandinavians, and three nights hence Victorians aplenty, no matter their own ethnic background, will be flitting from house to house in the festival of Hogmanay.

First-fooling to wit, I remember though that if you are the first to set foot in a home in the earliest hours of 1962 you must go empty-handed. That will bring the wrath of the gods upon your head and you won't sleep easily all the year through.

For choice, also, you should have black hair, which should present no problems in these days of popular hair-dyes, and you should bear a lump of coal with you. Your hosts might privately prefer a more edible product but they won't say so. Coal is the harbinger of a cozy hearth and thus of good luck.

What you will do if your furnace burns off I don't know. Stay at home, perhaps. But that of course is scarcely to be thought of. No matter what the Druids did or what their intent when they gathered the mistletoe, the modern Hogmanay party is a prescribed rite to say cheerful farewell to the old year and voice hilarious welcome to the new year. Both years are thus blessed, you see: one kissed goodbye and the other embraced on arrival. That's playing it fair.

After all it's only a notion that the old year wasn't as good; when it blew in the year before it seemed quite promising and full of favors. And in the main, perhaps, its disappointments, if any have been of one's own arrangement. But probably the real origin of Hogmanay, irrespective of its title, was simply that the old pagans liked to get together to have a good time. The modern pagans are no whit behind them.

Should It Be More?

Business Aid to Education

By WALTER STEWART

BEHIND the steady flow of news of business aid to education lies the disputed question of whether or not Canadian industry is pulling its weight. First, there have been these recent announcements by leading Canadian companies: Shell Oil is setting up 10 scholarships for Canadian teachers to pursue summer studies at U.S. universities. President Neil J. McKinnon of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce told shareholders at the annual meeting that the bank is creating its third university scholarship at Queen's.

International Nickel announced that it is putting up $86,000 in engineering and science scholarships at Canadian universities. Yet despite this evidence of corporate generosity business aid to education still arouses conflicting opinions.

In turn, it's regarded as "relatively good," admitted as "generous," and condemned as "dreadfully small." Measured by the contributions of other segments of society, business has nothing to be ashamed of, says Dr. S. H. Deeks, executive director of the Industrial Foundation on Education, industry's fact-finding body.

Last year, business in Canada contributed $11,581,000 to higher education, nine-tenths of it in the form of grants for capital expansion, research and operating expenses. Five years ago, the figure was only $1,700,000.

In 1960, business covered nearly 11 per cent of scholarships and bursaries. Provincial governments provided 38.1 per cent, federal governments 20.5 per cent and all other sources 30.3 per cent.

But the total of scholarships and bursaries available, says Dr. Deeks, is "objectively inadequate."

"The business community performs as well as other segments of society," he says, "but there is great inadequacy in the whole field." This year, 131,000 students are enrolled in universities and colleges. They will spend between $190,000,000 and $200,000,000. Scholarships and bursaries available amount to about $4,000,000—four per cent of the total they will spend.

Although the number of scholarships is increasing, it is barely keeping pace with the increase in enrolment, and the higher costs faced by students. Dr. O. W. Main, director of the University of Toronto's School of Business, is much harder on the business community than Dr. Deeks.

He says, "Whether we like it or not, we're educating a lot of people free for business. Firms want their employees ready-trained when they come."

On the one hand, there is the desire to cut adrift from all European influence, to cast overboard the European and all he stands for. On the other hand, there is a feeling in some quarters that Western Samoa should adopt and absorb into its political and economic structure many of the concepts they have tried and failed in overseas countries, principally the British Commonwealth and the United States.

The anti-European feeling has not yet reached any degree of intensity, but it is noticeable particularly around the port of entry, Apia. Years ago visitors from overseas, largely New Zealanders, were invariably impressed with the courtesy for which the Samoan at his best is renowned. Now that courtesy is fraying badly at the edges, by the private firms who can hope to share in the currency, while not prohibiting their coming, makes it clear that they are not encouraged.

The administration is taking all steps to ensure that government servants are being, and will be, replaced by Samoans. This last is reasonable enough, despite the loss of efficiency which is almost certain to result.

On the other side of the picture, however, there are some strange deviations from the foundations upon which it was hoped to build the new state. The basic principle at the root of the whole Samoan economic and social organization is the matai system, under which the matai, who is normally elected by the members of the family, controls the family and speaks for it on all important occasions.

All members of the family, men and women, young and

The firms are able to claim about 50 per cent tax exemption on their gifts, provided they are administered through a tax-exempt organization such as a university.

In the next 25 years university facilities will have to be expanded to three or four times their present size to accommodate predicted enrolments, says Dr. Deeks.

"Obviously government will have to bear the brunt of this load, but business must never forget that it has a vested interest in higher education," he says.

Kurt R. Swinton, chairman of the national committee of the Canadian Conference on Education, says, "Every cent contributed to education is an investment which pays returns, direct returns, to the individual as well as to society as a whole."

Dr. Murray Ross, President of York University, is pleased with the generosity of business support for education.

He is especially happy that business has come to realize that grants to students must be backed by aid to the universities, so the students will have some place to cash in their scholarships.

Only a small segment of the business community contributes. Three per cent of Canadian firms make a contribution each year, but the same over a 10-year period, as many as 20 per cent will have given something.

Last year total corporate aid to education averaged less than one-half of one per cent of profits before taxes for the firms involved. Nine-tenths of this was in the form of capital or research grants. The amount given in scholarships and bursaries was less than one twenty-fifth of one per cent of profits.

Nine firms contributed between them more than one third of all scholarships and bursaries put up by business. Dr. Deeks points out that many smaller firms contribute a relatively greater part of profits than the giants.

A sampling of companies indicates their present contributions from 0.85 per cent for companies with profits under $1,000,000 to 0.15 per cent for

Lethal Delights

By CASSANDRA, from London

ON November 17, Mr. Johnny Green from Tristan da Cunha died of pneumonia at Redhill General Hospital, Surrey.

On December 8, Mrs. Annie Swain, another ex-Islander from the South Atlantic, died in an ambulance from pneumonia.

On December 10, Mrs. Maria Lavarello died of pneumonia, also in the Redhill hospital.

All these folks were getting on in years, but the doctors say that there is no doubt that the Tristan da Cunchans are very susceptible to infections from colds, bronchitis and respiratory diseases in general.

Latitude 37

They are also being inoculated against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and the polio which are new infections to them. Apparently they organize the human frame rather better against disease way down on Latitude 37 south.

The climate of Tristan da Cunha is mild compared with what hits the British Isles and although most of us are immunized by sudden skies, soaking streets, dripping fogs and treacherous cold snaps, it is plain that these people are not.

Surely SOME place better in the Commonwealth could be found for them?

Couldn't that marvelous Queen of Tonga help?

The Colonial Office should make a bold and imaginative gesture and settle them elsewhere—NOT in the bleak islands off the north of Scotland, as has been suggested. Nor should they be partly dependent on charities.

There must be some more simple abode where the bewildered islanders could start life again without having to face the virulent bugs of the common cold, the murderous and maiming assaults of the motorcar, teddy boys, the illusory paradise of the football pools, the telly, rush hours, fall-out, confiscatory taxation and all other lethal delights of our affluent society.

I noticed, with interest, that in one of our more sedate newspapers, it was announced that "Mr. Floyd Patterson won his fight against Mr. Tom McNeely in the fourth round."

Mister Patterson? Mister McNeely?

The place is heavy with starched respectability. I was mentioning this unbecomingly to my friend Peter Wilson, and I asked him where were the flashing names of the boxing business of yesterday. It seems that the old razzmatazz of nomenclature has gone.

I asked him where was the 1961 equivalent of Battling Siki and the Wild Bull of the Pampas.

Wilson replied with a fine rollicking list of some of the names and descriptions that the old pug used.

There was the 'Athlete of Christ'—apparently a name given to Gene Tunney because he was suspected of being a man of principle.

There was King Tut (invariably an Egyptian), the Herkimer Hurricane, the Knob Hill Terror, the Whitecapel Windmill, the Jewel of the Ghetto, the Rochdale Thunderbolt, the Black Usher, the Gas-house Tarrar, the Pottawatomie Pitcher, the Ochil Man, the Man of Steel (not the late Joe Stalin), the Belting Brakeman—and scores of other gallant brusters who revelled in their fancy flouting names.

Lord Fisher, the former Archbishop of Canterbury, is like Robespierre, incorruptible. He also says that he is "not temptable at all."

The occasion that prompted Dr. Fisher to proclaim his immunity from temptation was his first public appearance as President of the Advertising Inquiry Council. He claimed that he was immune from the wiles of the market place.

The Archbishop said that the slogan "Beer is Best" told us absolutely nothing and he deplored comparisons of one product with another.

The Archbishop takes a very naive view of advertising. The human mind is wide open to repetitive suggestion and the persistent statement that "Beer is Best," does, in fact, convey a powerful impression that it is a wholeheartedly healthy drink. Mine's a better What's yours?

On the whole, however, the customer, if he has that most precious asset, a good healthy streak of scepticism, gets a pretty fair deal.

But he must be on guard. One of the fastest ones ever pulled in the advertising world occurred many years ago when a very smart individual was trying to unload large quantities of inferior tinned salmon.

The salmon was not salmon at all. It was a coarse, unappetizing fish whose flesh was a dirty grey.

The vendor and his advertising agency brooded on the formidable problems of flogging this unpalatable stuff for a long anxious time. Finally they came out with a master slogan: "The Salmon That Doesn't Turn Red in the Tin."

The people generally have little idea of what independence means. They do not realize that they are virtually independent now, that they make most of their own laws without interference from New Zealand. But the magic word today is "freedom."

The word freedom is variously interpreted. The prisoners in Tatalaga Jail are satisfied that freedom for Samoa means freedom for all Samoans, including those temporarily incarcerated by order of the court, and they are confident that on New Year's Day the prison gates will be flung open wide for them to pass freely through.

Some Samoans have even expressed the view that next year they will be able to go to the bank and demand large sums for spending money.

The members of the assembly have been falling down on one job, the passing of legislation which the country will require the moment that Western Samoa ceases to be subject to a UN mandate in favor of New Zealand.

It may be that they are relying on the fact that God is by law the Foundation of Samoa. They have a child-like faith that the Almighty will not allow the new independent state to lack anything, not even the basic laws required for the administration of the country and its people.

Cocktails and Independence

By an OFEN Correspondent, from Apia

AS Independence Day, January 1, approaches for Western Samoa, which will thus become the first independent South Pacific State, the pattern of its reaction to impending self government has begun to emerge. It would perhaps be more accurate to say a confused series of patterns will lead the country along its own road.

On the one hand, there is the desire to cut adrift from all European influence, to cast overboard the European and all he stands for. On the other hand, there is a feeling in some quarters that Western Samoa should adopt and absorb into its political and economic structure many of the concepts they have tried and failed in overseas countries, principally the British Commonwealth and the United States.

Caldough Faces New Trial Jan. 3

VANCOUVER (CP) — A and Eagle Plains Development Ltd., were found guilty of conspiracy charges against George Caldough, Roland Smith and three companies will begin in Assize Court here Jan. 22.

The new trial was ordered after a jury failed to agree on verdicts after the longest deliberation in B.C. history.

Caldough, 34, convicted on one count of defrauding U.S. investors, was sentenced last week to six years in the B.C. penitentiary. Two companies, the one remaining charge Mount Baker Investments Ltd. against Udell.

Slight Shuffle Only

Flynn Appointed Mines Minister

QUEBEC (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker named a new cabinet minister yesterday and made three honorary appointments apparently designed to give added prestige to his chief campaign lieutenant in the next general election.

Finance Minister Fleming, around whom speculation of a major cabinet shuffle centred for several weeks, remained at his post. A cabinet solidarity declaration was made by the prime minister in taking issue with published reports of friction between himself and Mr. Fleming.

NEW MINISTER

The new minister is Jacques Flynn, 46, lawyer MP for Quebec South and Deputy Speaker of the Commons since January, 1960. The grandson of E. J. Flynn, Conservative premier of this province in 1896-97, Mr. Flynn was sworn in as minister of mines and technical surveys, succeeding Paul Comtois, who became lieutenant-governor of Quebec Oct. 6.

NAMED PRESIDENT

Mr. Diefenbaker named State Secretary Dorton, 57, president of the Privy Council — an "ancient" and most important position. It entails few duties beyond presiding at cabinet meetings in the prime minister's absence. The post had remained vacant since the Conservative government was formed in June 1957.

Mr. Dorton, MP for the Quebec constituency of Bellefleur, continues as secretary of state.

Named members of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada were Turner Ontario president Leslie Frost, 55, and Senator Walter Ainslie, 75, the government leader in the upper house. These appointments were obviously in recognition of their long years of service to the Conservative party and personal loyalty to Mr. Diefenbaker.

Retiring Salvage Master:

Luck Big Part of Career

By IAN STREET

Norman Turner claims he isn't a man given to superstitions.

To prove it to his own satisfaction, he has lit three cigarettes from a single match in the cramped cabin of a Seabee amphibian skimming the cloud cover pierced at intervals by jagged peaks of the B.C. coast range.

LUCK BIG PART

Nevertheless, he's the first to admit luck has played a big part in his career as a marine superintendent and salvage master for Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Mr. Turner, 62, fought himself free of his seat belt and escaped from the cabin of a crashed helicopter on the bottom of Friday Harbor, San Juan Island. He recalled the helicopter "fell out of the blue" during a salvage mission and plunged to the bottom of the harbor.

INSPECTED ANCHOR

While readying a vessel for a long ocean tow in Esquimalt harbor, Mr. Turner was inspecting the anchor when it dropped suddenly, dragging him beneath the surface in a welter of chains. He bobbed up without a scratch.

On another occasion Mr. Turner lost his footing while crossing the open hatch of a lumber barge and landed many feet below on a soft bed of bark. A foot either side would have resulted in bone-crushing contact with the log cargo.

COMES OUT OKAY

"We've written this guy off several times, but he always seemed to come out okay," said Harold Elwood, chairman of the board of ITB, on the eve of Mr. Turner's retirement to enter business on his own as a marine surveyor.

Mr. Turner, born at Nanaimo Bay, apprenticed as a machinist at Yarrows Ltd., joined the CNR ships, then served as marine engineer on tug operated by the old Victoria Tug Company. He joined ITB in 1943.

COULD FILL BOOK

Since the firm went into the deepest salvage and towing business, he has flown to far-off places like Venezuela, Chile, Australia and Japan to superintend tows. He recalls now that although his experiences would "fill a book" there were few moments that stand out.

"Fortune certainly smiled on me when you consider where I've been," said Mr. Turner, looking back on his travels. At this stage in his career, however, he's content his new job won't take him further afield than Vancouver, with an occasional trip to the west coast of Vancouver Island.

SECOND TO NONE

Mr. Turner rates ITB salvage crews as "second to none in the business" and recalls with pride their successful bid to save the Greek freighter Triton holed in a Strait of Georgia collision in 1952. A gash in the hull plating 18 feet wide and 34 feet deep was patched on the spot to allow the ship to reach drydock in Esquimalt.

He also said modern technology was increasing the demand for men and women with a high level of education and training. He said too few of these people were now being trained.

Diefenbaker Denies Row with Fleming

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker vehemently denied Thursday night that there has been any disagreement between himself and Finance Minister Fleming.

Reports to this effect are "completely baseless," he said as he returned to Ottawa from a unique cabinet meeting in Quebec City.

Mr. Diefenbaker also told reporters that recent press speculation of an impending

Returning Lawyer Faces $57,000 Suit

A $57,000 lawsuit has been launched in B.C. Supreme Court against Vancouver lawyer Jan Sutherland, five days after he reappeared after a disappearance of more than three months.

The suit, filed on behalf of Mrs. W. M. Forbes of Surrey, claims Sutherland received $37,000 as her solicitor in the sale of property in Surrey.

The amount represents funds purportedly turned over to Mr. Sutherland in part payment for the property.

Mrs. Forbes, an elderly woman, is suing through her daughter, Mrs. Winifred Warack, 4617 Vantrigh, Victoria.

Mr. Sutherland returned to his Vancouver home Saturday, claiming he had been drinking

City Seeks Train As Mobile Museum

A travelling locomotive terminus of the transcontinental museum will be a feature of the centennial celebration.

Another possible centennial event is a two-week period of committee can borrow coaches mass street breakfasts with residents donning pioneer costumes.

Tentative plans call for the train being run from Nanaimo to Victoria March 29, the 74th anniversary of the arrival of the first train in a city depot. program as they are arranged, or on Sept. 3 to mark the 76th anniversary of the arrival of the first train at the Esquimalt night.

Clubs Attracting Bright Students To Teaching Field

Future Teachers' Clubs in five senior high schools in Greater Victoria are actively engaged in attracting brighter students to the teaching profession.

The clubs, sponsored by local teachers, were cited as evidence that the profession as a whole is concerned with the recruitment of future teachers. A spokesman for Greater Victoria Teachers' Association yesterday took issue with findings by McGill Institute of Education in Montreal that teachers seemed to be encouraging their poorest students—rather than their best—to enter teaching.

APPEALS TO DULL

A McGill survey of 1,409 Grade 11 students in 16 Protestant high schools in Quebec found teaching as a career appeals mainly to the duller student.

Prof. H. C. Gilliland, head of the college of education at Victoria University, said he had made no survey of students in high school who wanted to become teachers.

He pointed out, however, that barriers are set up to keep poorer students among those who enter university out of the college of education.

MUST PRODUCE

While a 50 per cent standing is sufficient for a Bachelor of Arts degree, said Prof. Gilliland, a "bare minimum" of 60 per cent in major subjects is required for a degree of Bachelor of Education.

Since new regulations were introduced last September, he added, elementary teachers must also obtain a 60 per cent minimum to qualify in their major subject.

"Regardless of who wants to go into teaching," said Prof. Gilliland, "the colleges of education here at UBC are just not letting in those people who can't produce a good academic record."

City Youth Fined $75 For Assault

A 19-year-old Victoria youth was fined $75 and bound over with a $100 bond for six months when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault in city police court yesterday.

Court was told Robert Clarke attacked another youth on the street following a party at Holyrood House Dec. 16. Evidence showed that Clarke had asked the other youth a question as the party broke up at 1 a.m. When he received no answer, Clarke struck the second youth.

Man Facing Trial Takes Life in Park

A Victoria man, apparently despondent over an impending trial in city police court, killed himself last night with a shot through the head in a corner of Beacon Hill Park.

Vagn Bjerre, 1170 Fort, was found by city detectives in the park near Cook and Park Boulevard, a bullet from a .300 calibre Remington-Union automatic through his head. He was still breathing, but was pronounced dead soon after being rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

HE LEFT TRAIL

His discovery in the park was due to a trail he left himself.

About 8:15 p.m. a city taxi firm received a phone call to send a cab to Cook and Oliphant.

Driver David Jones, 50 Government, met a man at the corner who gave him two letters. One was to an address in Saanich near the city limits; the other was addressed to the Colonist.

No one was home at the Saanich address, so Mr. Jones left the letter in a porch mailbox, and came to the Colonist where the second letter was opened. When its contents indicated Mr. Bjerre intended suicide a reporter hurried to city police headquarters.

Meanwhile a stepson, Oliver Nordby, 3265 Harriet, was advised to get in touch with police.

INDICATES PLACE
Dets. Deans Blackstock and Richard Berry went to the Saanich house, got the letter, and met Mr. Nordby in the detective office and turned it over to him to open.

It indicated where the writer intended to do away with himself.

This led the detectives to the park corner where Mr. Bjerre was discovered lying on the ground.

Spokesman Claims:

Hotels Didn't Profit From Tourist Boom

This year's 15 per cent increase in the volume of visitors did not mean increased prosperity for Vancouver Island hotels and motels.

"A mediocre year," Nick Renard, president of Victoria Hotel Association, said yesterday.

The reported increase of 15 per cent was swallowed up by the 300 or so new units that have been built in the city in the last two years or so.

"Also, a number of the visitors have been taking advantage of government-supervised campsites.

"Most hotels showed a decrease in trade.

"Although the government ferries have stimulated travel, they have made it easier to get out of Victoria, as well as making it easier to reach here.

"We look forward to 1962 with hope of the biggest year ever. We expect a tremendous influx of tourists in 1962, attracted by our centennial year and the Seattle World's Fair."

Writ Against Committal Before Supreme Court

Argument for a Supreme Court writ that would quash the committal for trial of a 22-year-old man held for possession of drugs, burglar tools and stolen goods, is expected to be heard in Supreme Court chambers today by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton.

Lawyer David Hummel, representing Robert Gibb, is seeking a writ of habeas corpus with certiorari in aid, which would quash the provincial court committal.

Even Hall Couldn't Stop Them All

Chicago goalie Glenn Hall stops this drive from masked Claude LaForge in first period of NHL game in Detroit last night, but couldn't stop newcomer's second-period shot that gave Wings 2-2 tie. (AP Photofax.)

Masked Man from Minors Gives Wings Tie with Hawks

DETROIT (AP) — Masked Claude LaForge, just called up from the minor leagues, gave Detroit Red Wings a 2-2 tie with Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night before 11,621 fans with a goal midway in the second period.

LaForge, 25-year-old left winger, snapped in Bruce MacGregor's pass at 1:03 of the second period as Chicago twice was unable to hold a lead.

LaForge up for his third trial for Detroit in four years, wears a mask to protect his right cheek bone, fractured earlier this month while playing for Hershey Bears in the American Hockey League.

Wings sent Al Johnson to Hershey to obtain LaForge. The tie was the third

Severson Quits Shamrocks Ferguson Returns as Coach

By JIM TAYLOR

Arnie Ferguson will return to coach Victoria Shamrocks in the Inter-City Lacrosse League again next season, but Whitey Severson will not be back, either as player or director.

Announcement that Ferguson had agreed to return for a second year came at a special meeting last night, only a few hours after Severson told The Daily Colonist he is severing all connections with the club for which he has starred for 11 seasons.

Severson, team manager last year, was relieved of the position at a recent meeting, but was left on the board of directors.

However, he said yesterday he had resigned as a director and planned to ask for his release as a player, which would make him a free agent.

Severson was reluctant to talk about his decision, which had been rumored since his release as manager.

"I don't want to cause any fuss over this," he said. "I have no ill feelings about it, although I am naturally disappointed. But if the team felt I could not be of help as manager, I feel I wouldn't be of help as director or player either. I'm sorry it had to come out this way."

Severson was not an "original" Shamrock. He missed the first season in 1950. But he has been with the club every season since, and perhaps more than any other player his name has been synonymous with the Shamrocks.

However he pointed out that since Severson had planned to retire as player, and since the Shamrocks already had a manager—in Hec McNeill, Severson's services would be lost only on the board of directors.

There was heartening news from the meeting, attended by the players, McWilliam, McNeill and directors Doug Fletcher and Frank Pomeroy.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

First came agreement that brought Ferguson back as coach. Then came a session in which the players chipped in with complaints about last season and suggestions for next.

Acquisition of certain out-of-town players was discussed, and plans were made for an all-out promotional campaign to rebuild the club to the lacrosse power it was a few seasons ago.

ARNIE FERGUSON ... back again

East-West Game Kicks Off Bowls

NEW YORK (CP) — The East-West all-star Shrine game at San Francisco leads the field Saturday as the U.S. college post-season bowl schedule lists three games to open its busiest weekend (channel 5, 2 p.m.).

The East squad, featuring all-Americans Ernie Davis of Syracuse and Bob Ferguson of Ohio State in its backfield, was rated an 11-point favorite.

Davis and Ferguson will be joined in the East's backfield by top college quarterbacks Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and Ron Miller of Wisconsin.

All-American quarterback John Hadl of Kansas will lead the West backfield and should complement the strong running power of Mel Melin of Washington State and Curt McClintock of Kansas.

The Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., brings together powers from the East and the South. Pennsylvania State and Georgia Tech. (Channels 7, 11, 12 at 11 a.m.)

co-Southwest Conference at Miami, Louisiana State is favored on the basis of superior speed and the fact that it defeated Tulane 62-0 in the last game of the regular season. (Channel 4, 10 a.m.)

Alabama, led by its great quarterback Pat Trammell, probably will engage in a passing duel with Arkansas, which relies on the passing arm of quarterback George McKindes.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., with the other Southwest champion, Texas, meeting Mississippi, figures to be an extremely close game. (Channels 7, 11, 12 at 11:30 a.m.)

Both teams ended with 91 season records and Texas was rated the fourth best team in the U.S. with Mississippi coming fifth in the poll.

Colorado and Louisiana State meet in the Orange Bowl.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

The provincial parks branch is ready to go ahead with a base camp development for Butte Lake vacationers, just as soon as a property trade can be arranged with the Elk River Timber Co., according to our latest information from Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

Mr. Westwood said that his parks branch officials have made an on the spot survey of the Butte Lake area with Elk River Timber Co. officials. Recommendations have been made and a proposal for an exchange of properties has been turned over to Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, who will endeavor to complete the arrangements.

Mr. Westwood said property concerned on Butte Lake includes blocks 121 and 656, at the end of the Butte Lake road, close to where logging is taking place. It is on the east shore of the reservoir, just about at the point where the original Butte Lake poured into the former Campbell River.

The lakeshore at this point is fairly precipitous, but there is some useable land and a small camping development and boat launching facilities could be provided.

Mr. Westwood said nothing about blocks 43 and 127, just south of the Strathcona Park Lodge, almost opposite the mouth of the Elk River, where it is known parks planners favor a full base camp development near the mouth of Moh Creek, but it is believed this property is included in negotiations.

Semis Reached In Two Events

Four were reached in the first two events last night in the annual three-event Commercial Bompel at Victoria Curling Club.

Still unbeaten with 4-0 records and due to meet in one semifinal were the B.C. Electric rink, skipped by Frank Lee, and the Service Club rink skipped by Don Matheson.

In the other semifinal with 3-0 records were Collin Martin's Sunday Commercial League rink, skipped by Bernie Beech, and a Navy rink skipped by Wally Stubbs.

In the "B" event semi-finals it will be a Civil Service rink skipped by Joe Linnell against Earl McNeill's Sunday Commercial rink, and the Jim Tang and Ron Roeder rinks in the other half, both from the Sunday Commercial League.

Out in the eighth in the "C" event were the Ingham Hotel, Six Mile and Gavin Jack rinks. In the 16's were the Bob Douglas, Jim Keath, R. Fee, Dick Thomson, H. McCaw, Mel Pederson, George Becker, B. Atkins and G. Soper rinks, and the Tally Ho rink skipped by Bill Purdy.

Finals are scheduled late Saturday evening.

FAN FARE

TECH FAVORED

Georgia Tech, a one-touch down favorite, is an old hand at bowl games, winning 11 of its previous 14 games.

The weather may be a strong factor in the Blue-Gray all-star game at Montgomery, Ala. An unusual cold wave moved into the deep south, bringing readings of 30 degrees and lower to the Montgomery area. (Channel 5, 11 a.m.)

If the cold continues until Saturday the Northern Blue team, a 10-point underdog, will have a definite advantage. But the weather bureau said a warming trend may reach the area by the weekend.

The four major post-season games of the year take place on New Year's Day—the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the Cotton Bowl and the Orange Bowl.

City Pee-wees Win 'C' Hockey Division

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Chilliwack, B.C., won the "C" division championship of the second annual pee-wee hockey jamboree.

Doug Crone scored three goals in the final period to give the Red Wings the victory over Rangers.

Capitano downed Nanaimo 3-2 to win the "B" division and Victoria downed New Westminster, 2-1, in the "C" division.

About 250 boys took part in the two-day event, sponsored by the Chilliwack and District Hockey Association.

Burnaby shut out Victoria, 5-0, while Chilliwack trounced Nanaimo 6-1 in the "A" semi-finals.

Outstanding player of "A" division during the jamboree was Allan Dorohy of New Westminster, and son of well-known WHL star Eddie "Pistol" Dorohy.

"B" division top star was Jim Tait of Nanaimo.

Steve Anderson of Victoria was the winner in "C" division. Brian Bowd of Burnaby was the outstanding "A" division goalie while Larry Storey of Chilliwack took top honors in the "B" class. A. Hurnaby led, Ricky Moore, was winner in "C" division.

Two Finalists Named In Esquimalt Curling

Rinks skipped by Joe Lannorelli and Bill Watson are finalists in the first annual Esquimalt Sports Centre Christmas week bonspiel.

Finals in all three events will be played Saturday night at T. Lannorelli and Watson play in the Farmer Construction primary final, but the other two event finalists have not been named.

Semi-finalists in the Dugones Event are Peck Houghton, Scotty Russell, George Knight and Harold Mattern. The Hudson's Bay event is only in the eighth.

Thirty rinks began play Box Day.

A buffet luncheon will also be held at 7 Saturday night and a dance and presentation of prizes will follow the competition.

City, Nanaimo Girls Win In Island Curloffs

Rinks from Nanaimo and Victoria have earned places in the Pacific Coast Curling Association annual girls curling playoffs, to be held in Victoria at the end of the season.

Jude Lebel of Victoria and Karen Higgins of Nanaimo will guide their rinks through competition with two rinks from the Lower Mainland and two from the Fraser Valley in the playoff for the other PCCA berth.

Miss Lebel's rink defeated that of Marlene Wilcox in the final of the "A" event at Victoria Curling Club yesterday.

Miss Higgins and her crew defeated Gail Berkey of Dunsmuir in the "B" event final then HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Wally Lenn, coach of the Houston Oilers of the American Football League, was a roommate of Boston Patriot coach Mike Holovak at North Western University and later served on the same PT boat as Holovak.

ROSE BOWL REVERED

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., the oldest and most revered of the four games, matches two teams having similar attacks—University of California from the Big Five and Minnesota of the Big Ten. (Channels 2, 5, 6 at 2 p.m.)

The game should develop into a battle of opposing ground forces. UCLA had almost a 4:1 ratio of running over passing during the regular season and specializes in long sustained drives.

Minnesota's all-American quarterback Sandy Stephens occasionally leads his team into a wide-open offensive drive but, on the whole, prefers the short gain ground style of play.

Minnesota has been rated an 11-point favorite.

The Sugar Bowl at New Orleans matches Alabama, the No. 1 college team as rated by the Associated Press, and

Bjarneson Key Man For North-West Van

Greg Bjarneson, a speedy break forward who was a member of the B.C. team on its tour of Japan a few seasons back, will lead the North and West Vancouver Regs against Victoria Crimson Tide tomorrow afternoon in their McKeechne Cup rugby match at MacDonald Park.

Lineup for the mainland team was announced last night. All its members play in the Vancouver Rugby Union, but the mainland league is separated for McKeechne Cup competition this year to make a four-team competition with Victoria, Vancouver, University of British Columbia and North and West Vancouver.

Hope will be Bruce Goodwin, Bill Fitch and Earl

Harker will be in the second row, Bjarneson and John Foster at break, and Dave Woolley, the captain, at lock. Reserve is Ron O'Sullivan.

Game time is 2:30.

Another Try For Vikings

Victoria University's Vikings make their third try for a victory against an American basketball team tonight when they face Lower Columbia Junior College of Longview, Wash., in an exhibition game at the Nelson Head gym.

It will be the first of two games, but the teams who meet again tomorrow night at Gordon Head. Both games start at 8 p.m.

The visitors won't have the overall height advantage enjoyed by Everett and Aberdeen teams that beat Vikings this year, and coach Bill Garner says his Vikings rate a good chance to take at least one of the games.

Four Island Rinks Reach Boys' Eights

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four Vancouver Island rinks advanced to the quarter-finals of the primary senior "A" event Thursday as the Pacific Coast Curling Association boys' bonspiel went through its second day.

Albert Poy of Nanaimo, George Zolowski of Comox and Bob McPherson and Gary Robertson of Victoria scored their third-straight victories to reach the eights of the senior "A" event.

In the junior "A" competition, seven of the quarter-finalists were Lower Mainland rinks, with Bill Conn of Nanaimo the only Island survivor.

Fifty-five rinks started in the junior competition, open to boys up to 15 years of age, and 49 started in the senior, open to boys up to 19.

All eight survivors in the senior "B" event Thursday were from the Lower Mainland areas surrounding Vancouver.

Lorne Hodgson of Comox cracked the Lower Mainland string in the junior "B" event, defeating Gerry Clutterbuck of North Vancouver 9-4 to reach the eights.

Mary's Mark Given Okay

TOKYO (CP) — Swimmer Mary Stewart of Vancouver, voted Canada's outstanding female athlete of 1951, had her world record for the 110-yard butterfly ratified Thursday.

The International Swimming Federation, which wrote 27 world records into the book, recognized Mrs. Stewart's time of 1:09.8 as the best in the world.

She set the mark last Oct. 21 in Vancouver, beating the record of Australia's Dawn Fraser by 1.8 seconds.

SHORT FANS

DALLAS (UPI) — Eddie LeBaron of the Dallas Cow boys completed the shortest touchdown pass in National Football League history. With the ball two inches from the goal line, LeBaron threw a short pass to Dick Bieksi for the score against the Washington Redskins, Oct. 9, 1950.

AIRDRIPONIANS BLANKED

LONDON (Reuters) — Strling Albion blanked Airdrieonians 10 in a Scottish First Division soccer match at Airdrie Wednesday night. The game was postponed from last Saturday.

Liz Top Attraction

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor was voted the top box office attraction of 1961 by the people who should know—the theatre owners of the U.S.

The dark-haired beauty, who won the Academy Award for her performance in "Butterfield 8" last April, made the No. 1 spot for the first time.

Last year she placed fourth, and in 1958, she was second. Other top 10 money-making stars, as polled by the Motion Picture Herald, were (in order):

Rock Hudson, Doris Day, John Wayne, Cary Grant, Sandra Dee, Jerry Lewis, William Holden, Tony Curtis and Elvis Presley.

Burial Park Job Goes to Treloar

Leonard Treloar, secretary of the Royal Oak Cemetery Board for 12 years, has been appointed manager of the burial park.

He was selected for the position from among 18 applicants. The position was made vacant by the death Oct. 26 of Herbert Knight, superintendent of the cemetery for many years. "The board considers it has made a good choice in appointing Mr. Treloar," chairman Ald. Millard Mooney said last night.

"His ability will continue to improve the Royal Oak cemetery's service to the public."

'West Side'
Best Picture
NEW YORK (AP)—New York film critics Thursday chose "West Side Story" as the best picture of 1961. Best acting awards went to Maximilian Schell for his role in "Judgment at Nuremberg" and Sophia Loren for "Two Women." Robert Rossen was named best director for "The Hustler."

Car Overtaken

Safety Belt Credited With Saving Nurse

NELSON (CP)—A safety belt is credited with saving a public health nurse from serious injury in a car accident on the Sloan-New Denver highway Wednesday.

Her only injury was a scratch on her hand. Damage to the car was estimated at $600.

City Thieves Rob Home Of TV Set

Prowlers scored two hits and a miss in the city early yesterday. They netted a portable television set and radio when they forced the side window of the home of B. Nicholls, 1792 Kings.

John Leadley, 229 Government, lost a 35-mm. camera and a cigarette lighter to a thief who raided his car.

They failed in their attempt to break a lock leading into the warehouse of Collison's Paper Co. and the rear of Molly's Cake Shop, both at 2613 Quadra.

Picasso Helps

TURIN, Italy (Reuters)—Spanish artist Pablo Picasso will help Italian sculptors carve reliefs in a huge rockface of 5,900-foot Mount Sagro in the Apennine Range next year, the newspaper La Stampa reported here Thursday.

Finder Not Ill From Pill

PENTICTON (CP)—Blood samples from a man showed he suffered no ill effects from picking up a deadly radioactive pill.

Hugh Forsythe, 30, of Dawson Creek, found the pill on the highway north of Prince George and tossed it away.

Gaglardi Loses Licence Till April

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Highways Minister Gaglardi was convicted Thursday on a careless driving charge by a magistrate who said "I have to treat this man as any other citizen."

The minister, for his sixth traffic offence in five years, was fined $75 and Magistrate Donald McDonald recommended suspension of his driver's licence for three months. The suspension is automatic, dating from Jan. 2.

Magistrate McDonald told the minister—who appeared in court with his lawyer—that he should not be trying to solve the problems of B.C. while driving a car.

"To a busy man those may sound like hollow words," the magistrate said, "but mistakes on the highway are human lives."

Aged naturally in the traditional manner... to assure Old Style flavour!

Old Style CARE

brewing Old Style is still a labour of love!

The brewing of Old Style calls for the blending not only of fine ingredients but of many talents as well. The skills of the hop grower, the maltster, the kettleman, the brewmaster... craftsmen who still believe that work is worth a man's best efforts. And the care proudly given by men like these is reflected in the mellow taste... the refreshing flavour... and the golden colour that makes Old Style such a pleasure to drink.

The Bustard May Pursue the Peewits

By TED PULFORD

Some rare and not-so-rare birds are flapping their wings this morning in preparation for a wild flight through many Victoria offices, factories and stores.

Search if you like, these amazing creatures won't be found in the catalogues of ornithology, and only a few enlightened psychologists have noted their peeping at all.

They are to be found, exclusively, at office parties.

The Doo-Billed Whiffin: A scrawny bird with a bald pate in the adult state. It works most of the year in a credit department where it has been given charge of the ledger.

Whiffins feed heavily on canapes and make a superior sort of 'tch! tch! tch!' sound which other birds find highly amusing.

The Raucous Grackle: Appearing over-stuffed even in the live state, this specimen spends most of its time outdoors selling the company's products or giving "pep talks."

Plumage becomes ruffled with drink; loud cry sounds very much like "Didja hear the one..." Extremely uncomfortable anywhere but the centre of the room.

Grackles have an instinctive dislike for Due-Billed Whiffins.

The Tittering Peewit: A tiny, fleet-footed bird with grey plumage which becomes bedraggled under the influence of spirits. Peewits become very noisy at office parties.

They sound a shrill "Tee! Hee! Hee!" without apparent reason and some species can be made to perch on the lap of a Raucous Grackle.

The Doleful Bustard: Some authorities believe this bird to be a cross between a Buzzard and a Vulture. During most of the New Year's party, the Bustard is absolutely silent.

Large quantities of liquor have been known to make a Bustard chase one or more Tittering Peewits behind the filing cabinet, but the Peewits' piercing shrieks soon drive it off. The Doleful Bustard is sometimes confused with the Bald Eagle.

The Leather-Patched Herringbone: The only bird at an office party to elicit a tone of respect from a Doleful Bustard. Carries slide rule in breast pocket and answers all direct questions with, "Hm-m-m-m."

The Long-Legged Blather: Easily identified because of all the birds—this one's mouth remains open whether feeding or not. Knows all hoary songs which it bellows loudly and off-key. Delights in leading Tittering Peewits in "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The Craven Blat: Hovers around Doleful Bustards, lighting their cigarettes, pouring drinks and cawing "Yes, Boss! Yes, Boss!"

More and more local business firms are deciding office parties are for the birds.

Many More to Go

Mayor Helps Cutting Pole

About 200 people gathered at View and Broad Streets yesterday afternoon to watch

Mayor Percy Scurrell assist in removal of the first power pole from the downtown area. Mayor Scurrell and city lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid wielded a cross-cut saw long enough to make a shallow cut in the base of the pole. It was pulled clear by a mobile hoist.

Midnight Ceremony At City Hall

Mayor Percy Scurrell will hand over the reins of civic government to mayor-elect B. B. Wilson at midnight New Year's Eve. The symbols and will take place immediately after Mayor Scurrell presides a button to flood the front of city hall with light, to light four cluster-light candelabra outside the hall, and to usher in Victoria's centennial year.

Scurrah Says Goodbye In Moving Ceremony

His voice breaking with emotion, Mayor Percy Scurrell bade a formal farewell to his council yesterday. The incident happened during a 10-minute council meeting called so aides could make presentations to Mr. Scurrell and Mrs. Scurrell. Mrs. Scurrell sat by her husband's side during the presentations.

"VERY PRECIOUS" "I feel that I am retiring... that I am leaving with every one of you my friend," he said. "That will always be very precious to me."

Mr. Scurrell paid tribute to his wife in his speech. It was her candelabra on behalf of the council.

"It has been said, and how true it is, that behind every successful man is a good woman. I certainly have a wonderful wife."

"She has been of tremendous assistance to me."

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson presented Mrs. Scurrell with a silver compact.

"PROUD OF YOU" "For the past six years you have carried out the duties of the mayor's wife with dignity and thoughtful consideration. We were always proud of you," she said.

Ald. Arthur Dowell presented Mr. Scurrell with a silver watch.

Parking Most Pressing

Mayor Lists City Problems

Most pressing problem facing the 1962 city council is solving the downtown parking problem, Mayor Percy Scurrell said yesterday.

"I know you will solve it," he told council. "I hope you will immediately finalize the parking commission."

Mayor Scurrell was referring to the $1,115,000 bylaw approved Aug. 31 by downtown property owners, plus urban renewal. That is expected to provide two off-street parking garages in the downtown area, to hold a total of 800 cars.

He made the comment during a special meeting of city council held to honor him. All council members on this year's council will be members of the 1962 council.

ANOTHER PROBLEM "Another problem you are going to have before you is town property renewal. That is extremely important to the city."

Father Acts Fast

Family of 11 Flees From Blazing Home

By ERITH M. SMITH

A Chinese family of 11 was left homeless late yesterday when flames swept through their home at 1251 Craigflower Road.

Quick action by Joe Lee, father of the six children in the house, prevented any injury or loss of life.

DRIVEN BACK At about 5:30 p.m. his sister, Mrs. Nickson Lee, saw smoke seeping around the door to the basement. Mr. Lee's mother opened the door, and was driven back by a burst of flames from below.

At once Mr. Lee rounded up the rest of his family—his children, wife, mother, sister and brother-in-law—and they fled the house with what clothing and small belongings they could gather.

FLAMES NEXT RACING An alarm was turned in by a neighbor, and View Royal volunteer firemen responded. Fire Chief Al Beasley said the 51-year-old house was in excellent condition, but that the cedar, fir and heavy wall paper of the interior sent flames racing through the ground floor.

SPREAD CHECKED Firemen were able to check the spread of fire to most of the upper part of the house, although flames broke through the roof at one point after climbing up through the wall.

Damage to house and contents was estimated at from $4,000 to $5,000. It is believed only the building itself was insured.

Neighbors took the Lee family in after the fire, which was extinguished in about 90 minutes, and gave them supper.

Four of the children, ranging from less than a year to about 8, with their mother, grandmother and aunt, were given shelter for the night by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Salmon, 945 Dellwood.

"The eldest youngster acts as interpreter," Mr. Salmon told the Colonist. "Otherwise, it was getting too confusing."

Joe Lee himself, his brother-in-law, and two oldest youngsters, a boy of 7 and a girl, 10, are staying at the home of Tommy Louie, 2560 Cedar Hill.

MONEY RESCUED Although they lost most of their personal possessions and their furniture, the Lees are grateful for one thing. A sum of money in an upstairs drawer was rescued, undamaged, by firemen.

Joe and Nickson Lee operate Lees Farms on property adjoining the house.

CAUSE NOT KNOWN Chief Beasley said he would make an investigation today into the cause of the fire, which last night was still unknown.

The house is owned by Mrs. Catherine Massey, a cousin of Chief John Albany of the Songhees band, to whom it was willed by her parents.

$3,000,000 Hotel Talk Turns Out Just Rumor

No basis was found yesterday for reports of a $3,000,000 hotel being planned for the site where the Monterey Restaurant was destroyed by fire recently.

Mrs. Maurice Wincure, whose husband owns the corner property, said last night she knew nothing of the rumor and that they are still hoping to rebuild the restaurant if financing can be arranged.

Start Urged On City 'Copter Pad'

Immediate construction of a $2,500 emergency landing pad for helicopters is being sought by Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of city public works committee.

"Being on an island, I feel we just cannot afford not to have every type of transport facility available, particularly with Century 21 being held in Seattle next year," he said.

"We're the only city in Canada that hasn't got a spot for helicopters to set down and that's not good enough for the capital city of B.C."

He added that the city would gain tremendous publicity as it would be marked on all aviation maps. Ald. Edgewood wants the pad built on the Victoria West industrial reserve.

City Offices To Close

Municipal and provincial government offices will be closed both Monday and Tuesday next week.

Municipal and city offices will be observing the two-day holiday in keeping with a recommendation by the inter-municipal committee.

'Trustees Too Remote'

Teachers Seek Better Link

Teachers in Greater Victoria want to bring school trustees into closer touch with what is going on in the classroom.

A request from Greater Victoria Teachers' Association for setting up a permanent liaison committee composed of teachers and trustees has already received a sympathetic hearing.

The school board at its final meeting for 1961 indicated approval of the request and referred it to the incoming board.

to be dealt with at the January meeting.

In the past there have been occasional liaison meetings between teachers and trustees, said a GVTA spokesman, but the committee thus formed had no official status.

"We want something more definite," the teacher spokesman said. "Right now the only group which meets regularly with the school board is our agreements committee."

Teachers feel that in a school district the size of Greater Victoria, trustees are becoming increasingly remote from the everyday doings in the classroom and relegated to mere "holders of the purse strings," the official said.

Port Renfrew Service Sunday

Dahlias Turn Pale

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

I have been getting quite a few SOS calls from readers during the past couple of weeks in regard to dahlias sprouting in storage. In most cases, the roots were dug in October, dried off for a week or 10 days, then stored in the corner of the basement. Some were in cartons, some buried in sand, and a few simply covered with sacks, but on examination the tubers were found to be sprouting long shoots, thin and pale from lack of light.

The most important thing to do in such cases is to shift the roots to a cooler place, for the sprouting is due to too high a storage temperature.

If the shoots are no more than an inch long, they can remain "as is," for it is unlikely they will make much more extension growth at a temperature below 40 degrees. If they are longer than this, shorten them back to a point immediately above the first leaf or leaf scale above the point where they emerge from the neck of the tuber.

While a low temperature is very important in keeping dahlia roots safely through the winter, the storage medium also plays a big part. I have tried sealing the tubers up in plastic bags and dipping them in paraffin wax and various other storage treatments, but my most happy results have come from burying the roots in cartons of vermiculite.

At times when vermiculite wasn't readily available, I have substituted sand, peat moss and sawdust, all with pretty fair success, but none of these materials has brought my dahlias through the winter in such good shape as vermiculite. I think this is because the granules of vermiculite act like blotting paper, sopping up moisture from the stored tubers but retaining this moisture within the laminated structure of the vermiculite grains, thereby keeping the tubers from shrivelling.

A few cases have been reported to me where stored seed potatoes were pushing out thin, whitish sprouts and, while a too-warm atmosphere is responsible for the premature sprouting, the unhealthy appearance of the shoots is due to a major mistake—storing in the dark instead of in full light.

Potatoes for eating must be stored in the dark, for light will turn the skins green and green potato skins are mildly poisonous, making it necessary to peel the spuds deeply. Potatoes for planting, though, need all the light they can get.

Ideally, potatoes especially selected for seed should be arranged in shallow boxes or seed flats with the ends containing the most eyes uppermost. These trays are stored in a very cool but frostproof place in full sun. The general idea is to green up the skin and develop short, stocky, green or purple shoots by planting-out time.

Another common storage mistake lies in keeping onion sets in a cool place. Onion sets which have experienced a chill will run up to seed at the drop of a hat when planted out, while those stored at around 70 degrees are incapable of pushing up a flower stalk and making seed.

Invitation to Shoot—3

Cold Facts of Country Life

LEICESTER, England—Our introduction to the country life of England, through an invitation to go pheasant shooting last week, was most rewarding.

If the landed gentry in the British Isles is disappearing we didn't see it. Everything is the way it was 100 years ago.

We visited one stately home which was quite large, and to give us some idea of its size we were told a story. It seems the previous week a couple were invited there for lunch. The roads were icy, there was snow on the ground, and it was about five degrees above zero. The shivering man rang the bell and the butler answered the door.

"My goodness," the man said to the butler, "it's cold out today."

The butler bowed and then replied, "Wait till you get inside."

It is only natural when you're invited to stay with the landed gentry that you discuss the subjects they're interested in.

Since we had been shooting all day the other guests were quite curious as to how we enjoyed it.

"How did it go, Mr. Buchwald?" one of the shooters asked us.

"Just fine," we said. "It couldn't be better."

"Do you have pheasant shooting in America, Mr.

Billingsworth?" one of the other gentlemen asked.

"I think so," we replied.

Our host came over and said, "Mr. Blackman, would you care for some tea?"

One of the men whispered in his ear. The host looked astonished. "I'm terribly sorry I called you Mr. Blackman, Mr. Billingsworth, but I didn't get your name when you came in."

"It's perfectly all right," we said. As we were drinking our tea, one of the shooters sat down next to us. "I understand you're a journalist, Mr. Goodheart, but you must forgive me, I never read the paper."

"That's all right," we replied. "I write under the name of Buchwald."

There was a relaxed atmosphere in the room and we got down to serious talk.

"How is Annabelle?" one of the men asked another.

"Not too good. I may have to send her down to London."

"What a pity," someone said. "Poor Annabelle."

"I didn't know it was that serious."

"Yes, it was a bad fall. I still can't believe it."

"I never thought it would happen to Annabelle," someone else said sympathetically.

"Is Annabelle his wife?" we asked the man sitting next to us.

"Don't be a fool. Annabelle is his horse. His wife's name is Julia."

"Where is Julia?"

"She just broke her collar bone and will be up and about in a month. Damned well deserved it, the way she took that last fence. Stephen should have shot her."

"Who? Annabelle?" we asked him.

"No, you clot, Julia."

"I suppose this is a different life than the one you're used to, Mr. Bleakhill?" our host said to us. "Are you married?"

"I was, but I'm not anymore. My wife missed a jump in the Bois de Boulogne a few weeks ago and I had to shoot her."

"Was the horse hurt?"

"Heavens, no, or I wouldn't be here today."

Hollywood Today

Princess Grace Welcomes Film Shot in Monaco

By SHEILAH GRAMAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Princess Grace is happy that "Meet Me in Monte Carlo" will be shot in her Monaco kingdom. French star Alain Delon is costarring with Nancy Kwan. Nancy will not be playing an Oriental for the first time. Nor will she do so in her Italian picture, "The Main Attraction." Nancy will probably never again play an Oriental.

Shelley Winters isn't mad that her new romance, Alex Venci, will be in London to star in "To Play With a Tiger" while she is starring on stage in "Sweet Bird of Youth," with Orson Welles directing. Venci gets Hildegarde Kneass as his lady. That's pretty good for a boy never heard of before he courted Shelley. But then she always is lucky for the men who love her.

They are changing the title of Rod Taylor's movie, "Mr. Francis Drake" to "Seven Seas to Calais." Rod's next film is "Big River, Big Man"—at 20th-Fox—if you can get Spencer Tracy, he told the startled 20th executives.

Before Audrey Hepburn left for Rome she made some additional close-ups for "The Children's Hour." Too late for the premiere here, but to go out with the movie all over the country and the world.

Jerry Lewis says his battle with Paramount is a matter of moral principle, and nothing else. We've been profitable for each other over the years. The studio's lawsuit against Jerry stems from the fact he has not yet reported for his new movie and has no apparent intention of doing so.

Jack Lemmon, in reply to reports he would take the long loss matrimony with Faye Dunaway during the holidays: "It isn't true." To my knowledge Jack gave three Christmas presents—to his mother, his father and his son.

Lee Remick is spending every evening under her Christmas gift from husband Bill Gabor—a beautiful 18th century crystal chandelier. "We have a birth certificate which proves it came from the Palace of Versailles," says Lee.

Hearing that Gene Kelly was signed to play the Bing Crosby role in the TV version of "Going My Way," Jackie Gleason wrote and asked Gene for a role. "It's a small part," purred Jackie. "but I'd like to play the bishop." If the role was only Prior Tuck, the answer would be an immediate yes.

Rail Talks Delay Call 'Regrettable'

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's major railways have presented a "disappointing and regrettable" request for a two-week delay in opening negotiations for a new labor contract with their 110,000 non-operating employees, Frank Hall, chief negotiator for the workers, said yesterday.

Mr. Hall said, however, the 15 C.L.C.-affiliated unions which bargain for the non-ops will meet the railways as requested Jan. 22. The unions had asked that the talks open not later than Jan. 8.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You think you've heard everything—but wait! My husband and I have been married two years, I am 24 and he is 26. A mutual friend of ours was divorced six months ago. She is my age— attractive and lively.

Yesterday she phoned me and said, "If you weren't such a good friend I'd never ask this. I'd like to borrow your husband for a couple of hours next month. My former sister-in-law will be passing through town. She'll be at the airport from 7 p.m. until 9:05 p.m. I plan to meet her for dinner. I need a terrific-looking man to knock her eyes out. Of course I'd use a phony name. She'd never know who he was. How about it?"

I was flabbergasted and said I'd let her know. I asked my husband what he thought and he said it was plenty far out but it might be good for kicks. We're letting you decide. — TWIDDLE AND TWADDLE

Dear T and T: Kicks like these could kick your marriage right into the divorce court. A real friend wouldn't ask to borrow a husband as if he were a bridge table.

Suggest she look in the phone book under Escort Services. Since she's interested only in appearances let her have a man and pay him for his time.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a college student in need of advice. My roommate is a foreign student who has a lot of money to spend by our standards. I

Diamond Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gough, Cochrane Street, were honored guests on the occasion of their 80th wedding anniversary on Boxing Day, when Mr. and Mrs. John Gough, their son and daughter-in-law, entertained in the Ardnaheim Lounge in Holyrood House from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Pine boughs and poinsettias decorated the lounge, and red roses in silver bud vases were on the bride's table which was centred with an anniversary cake.

After about 80 guests had been received, a toast was proposed by Mr. Fred Rawnsley, to which Mr. Alfred Gough responded.

Mrs. Iris Paver, contralto, sang a group of songs, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Pamela Paver.

Mr. and Mrs. Gough have lived in Victoria for just over 50 years, having come here in May of 1911 from Leeds, England. Mr. Gough was employed in the city engineer's office, City Hall, for 34 years.

They have three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Fri., Dec. 29, 1961 15

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Knight of Beach Drive were among passengers sailing to Acapulco from San Francisco, via Los Angeles, aboard the Matson liner Sa. Lurline, which left Dec. 22. This was a special Christmas-New Year holiday cruise.

Kirkham-Dawson Vows In First United Church

White chrysanthemums decorated First United Church on Wednesday evening for the candlelight service when Joanne Margaret Dawson and Rodney Victor Kirkham were united in marriage. Rev. A. I. Higgins performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Dawson, Union Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kirkham, Lodge Avenue.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white peau de sole the bodice appliqued with Guipure lace and the bell shaped skirt falling into a short train. A peu de sole petal headdress held her finger up veil of illusion and she carried a shower the toast to his niece.

Leaving on a wedding trip bouquet of gardenias. Her only jewelry was a ruby pendant, a gift from the groom. Mr. Dawson gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride attendants were Mrs. R. K. Craigie, Miss Barri Worthington and Miss Faye Smith. They wore gowns of emerald green deep lustrous satin styled with short sleeves and bell shaped wrap around skirts. Their flower hats were of the same material and they carried cascades of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Cameron was best man and Mr. David Dawson and Mr. John Dawson acted as ushers.

Mr. John Dunbar sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love Thee."

At the reception at Holyrood House the bride's table, decorated with red and white carnations and white candles, was centred by a three tiered cake made by the groom's aunt and loved by his mother. Mr. Irvine Dawson proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip up Island and in Washington state, the bride wore a mink

Mr. and Mrs. Glendon B. Holland Married on Parents' Anniversary

In keeping with family tradition, Anne Louise Forsberg and Glendon Bruce Holland were married on Dec. 21, the wedding anniversary date of both their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Forsberg, Gladstone Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. N. Holland, Quadra Street.

Pastor T. L. Westcott, assisted by Pastor R. Holmes, performed the ceremony in First Baptist Church.

Before the service Pat Perry sang "A Wedding Prayer" and during the signing of the register the bride's three sisters sang "God Hath Not Promised." Phyllis Hick was organist.

The bride's gown featured a lace bodice with pearl and sequin applique and lace medallions on the full, floor length skirt of white silk organza. Her chapel veil was lace trimmed and she carried white chrysanthemums. For jewelry she had her grand mother's heirloom brooch and a watch, a gift from the groom. Mr. Forsberg gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Marilyn Holland, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and wore a white length gown of deep turquoise peau de sole and matching whimsy hat. Her bouquet was of pale pink chrysanthemums.

The Misses Harriet, Margaret and Jeannie Forsberg, bridesmaids, wore similarly styled dresses in pale turquoise peau de sole, whimsy hats and carried bouquets of deep pink chrysanthemums.

Vicky Westcott wore a flower girl's dress of pink nylon, matching whimsy hat and her bouquet was of pink chrysanthemums. Vincent Vickers was the ring bearer.

Mr. Eric Forsberg, brother of the bride, was best man and showing guests to the pews were Mr. Stanley Vickers, Fred Scriver and Ricky Williams.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the Olde England Inn where the young people's male quartet sang "Each Step

We Take." The toast to the bride was proposed by Pastor Westcott and Mr. D. Vickers was master of ceremonies.

The three tiered wedding cake iced in white and silver was made by the bride's father.

After spending a honeymoon at Point-No-Point the young couple will make their home at 1090 Quadra Street. The bride's going away costume was a silver grey suit, white hat, garnet red topcoat, black accessories and gardenia corsage.

Annual Statement

Bennett Sees Great Things Ahead in 1962

Premier Bennett is looking to 1962 as "the key year of the greatest decade in our history."

He credits government policies in three energy fields—oil, natural gas, and hydro-electric power—with providing a rich climate for private enterprise growth in B.C.

But his hopeful outlook regarding power developments in the province is apparently based on the assumption that Ottawa will agree to simultaneous development of the Peace and Columbia River projects through allowing the sale of Columbia downstream power to the U.S.

ANNUAL STATEMENT
Premier Bennett gave his views in his annual statement regarding economic conditions.

He said the least complicated of the two power projects was the Peace, which had no obstacles of international control, no fish problem, no relocation of flooded-out settlers and—because of the presence of natural rapids—no navigational problems.

BETTER CONTROL
"On this last point, in fact, hydro-electric development of the Peace will actually provide better downstream flood control and improve present navigable waters," he said.

"There has been some speculation Ottawa might block the big Peace development under the Navigable Waters Protection Act by stating the power project interfered with navigation on the river."

WELL ADVANCED
The premier said engineering on the Peace was well advanced both as to the construction of a storage dam and as to transmission.

"Financing of the project by the public agency which is carrying out the development has been planned carefully and presents no problems," he said.

Turning to the Columbia he said actual construction contracts could be called early this year.

GREATLY ENCOURAGED
"British Columbia has been greatly encouraged, during negotiations for Columbia development, by the broad and realistic outlook of U.S. officials... American experts have expressed agreement with B.C. the development should proceed forthwith, in order that rising costs and the potential competition of other forms of power may be avoided," he said.

The sale of Columbia power to the U.S. at approximately five mills would pay for the cost of building the dams in B.C., he repeated.

PROJECT FEASIBLE
"This, I must emphasize once more, not only will make the entire Columbia project entirely feasible, but will provide the people of our province with the cheapest hydro-electric power available anywhere in the world," he said.

Development of B.C.'s resources will provide B.C. and Canada with the greatest energy resource development in the free world, he said.

Drag Race On Douglas Costs $100

A fine of $100 and suspension of his driver's license was the sentence of an Edmonton youth accused of drag racing on Douglas Street.

Andrew H. Pollock, 723 Reikirk, was stopped after police spotted two cars travelling at high speed on Douglas two weeks ago.

The second car kept going and overturned on Quadra after a police chase.

Prairie Cities Expand

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's two major cities expand this weekend as Calgary and Edmonton formally annex adjacent towns.

BOTH RESIDENTIAL.
Edmonton will annex the town of Beverly to the north-east while Calgary will annex the town of Forest Lawn to the east, and two smaller strips, one to the south and the other to the north.

Both major areas to be annexed are generally residential with little industry and both will enjoy the advantages of increased utility services offered by the cities.

MAIN GAINS
An increase in land area for expansion and taxation revenue will be the main gains by the cities.

The three areas annexed by Calgary form by far the greater area, totalling 74.5 square miles while the town of Beverly totals 823 acres in area.

Cool Thieves Steal Settee

VANCOUVER (CP)—Non-chalant thieves strolled into the lobby of a swank West Second Avenue apartment and strolled out again—with a $70 settee.

Boat Fire Victim?

Boy's Body Washed On Beach

By JACK FREY

MYSTERY of a fire-gutted outboard boat found off Ten Mile Point Wednesday took a gruesome turn last night when the body of a two-year-old boy was washed ashore in the vicinity.

If police establish a link between the death of the unidentified boy and the burned boat, it suggests that tragedy also may have befallen the child's mother and father.

Body of a boy with "almost Indian facial characteristics" was washed ashore near the foot of Vantreight Lane at St. Margaret Bay in Gordon Head.

LOOKED LIKE DOLL
It was found shortly after 5 p.m. by R. J. Bishop, 4631 Vantreight, who was strolling along the beach. "I thought it was a doll," he said.

Only a theory advanced at press time was Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson's opinion that an Indian family may have been crabbing when a pitch pot in the bow upset, causing extensive damage to that part of the 16-foot craft.

PIKE IN BOW
Indian chiefs in the Greater Victoria area agreed that Indians frequently light fires in the bows of their boats while crabbing in shallow water.

David Elliott, a former chief of the West Saanich Reserve, said he saw a photograph of the boat Frankie M. in yesterday's Colonist and was of the opinion it came from somewhere between the San Juan Islands and Port Angeles on the American side of the strait.

MOTOR IN WELL
The outboard motor was attached to a well in the floor of the flat-bottomed boat instead of the stern and is a common sight in Washington, British Columbia.

The Colonist immediately telephoned a description of the boy's clothing to the U.S. Coast Guard search and rescue centre in Seattle, where a spokesman said further checks would be made from the American side.

BOAT ADRIPT
The partially-burned boat was found drifting off Ten Mile Point at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday. RCAF search and rescue officials in Vancouver said they first learned about it at 6:15 p.m. the same day, when the Colonist called for information.

The official was concerned that search and rescue had not been notified during the morning. "You know there could have been someone clinging to a log or floating about wearing a lifejacket," he was quoted as saying.

DEAD COUPLE DAYS
The child's body was taken to Santa funeral home. Chief Pearson said the boy appeared to have been dead for "a couple of days—not long."

The child's skin was white but it had a "wide, flat face, almost Indian characteristics," he said.

The body was well clothed and the seat of an outer, quilted nylon garment appeared to have been damaged by fire.

Clothing was described as a diaper covered with yellow plastic pants, a green and white, horizontal-striped sweater, blue cardigan sweater, the nylon outer garments, pink and white striped socks and scuffed but nearly-new white leather boots with hard-soles.

Only a theory advanced at press time was Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson's opinion that an Indian family may have been crabbing when a pitch pot in the bow upset, causing extensive damage to that part of the 16-foot craft.

PIKE IN BOW
Indian chiefs in the Greater Victoria area agreed that Indians frequently light fires in the bows of their boats while crabbing in shallow water.

David Elliott, a former chief of the West Saanich Reserve, said he saw a photograph of the boat Frankie M. in yesterday's Colonist and was of the opinion it came from somewhere between the San Juan Islands and Port Angeles on the American side of the strait.

MOTOR IN WELL
The outboard motor was attached to a well in the floor of the flat-bottomed boat instead of the stern and is a common sight in Washington, British Columbia.

The Colonist immediately telephoned a description of the boy's clothing to the U.S. Coast Guard search and rescue centre in Seattle, where a spokesman said further checks would be made from the American side.

BOAT ADRIPT
The partially-burned boat was found drifting off Ten Mile Point at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday. RCAF search and rescue officials in Vancouver said they first learned about it at 6:15 p.m. the same day, when the Colonist called for information.

The official was concerned that search and rescue had not been notified during the morning. "You know there could have been someone clinging to a log or floating about wearing a lifejacket," he was quoted as saying.

UN Troops Fired On From Mine

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A report detailing accusations that the Union Miniere mining complex in the Congo's Katanga province allowed its installations to be used for attacks against United Nations personnel in Elisabethville was made public Thursday at UN headquarters.

The report, from the chief UN officer in the Congo, Dr. Sture Linnar, said UN troops were fired on by mortars and machine-guns from several places on Union Miniere property, including the hospital.

The fire was attributed to the report principally to "a hard core of non-African extremists and mercenaries" anxious to avoid coming within the reach of criminal jurisdiction.

Soviet Child Hailed For Ignoring Parents

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The well-behaved Soviet child is the one who tells his parents firmly that the Communist party and government are the ones who really care for him.

The party newspaper Pravda yesterday reported on a speech made before Premier Khrushchev and some 2,700 ideological activists attending a Kremlin conference.

The speaker, children's writer Sergei Mikhalikov, reported with evident approval that the father of a five-year-old boy told his son that he behaved badly and knew Mikhalikov and the lad retorted: "It is not you who cares for me, but the party and the government."

The speaker added: "He was only five but he listens to the radio and watches television. And being a child, he absorbs everything he sees and hears like a sponge."

Ideals Of UN Took Beating

BERWICK-ON-TWEED, England (AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home said Thursday the United Nations is facing a "crisis of confidence" which could lead to its destruction. But he emphasized that Britain will work "to save an organization in which so many of the hopes of men reside."

The foreign secretary's address was marked by a stinging attack on the voting practices of some of the new members of the world body.

LODGE HOME noted that four countries (the Soviet Union, Ceylon, Liberia, United Arab Republic) opposed a Security Council resolution condemning the Indian attack on Goa, and added:

"The significance of such action is this. Whatever the provocations suffered by India or the excuses made by her or for her, there is no doubt at all that her actions were a direct breach of the charter and of international law."

WITHOUT SHAME
Yet despite this, the foreign secretary said, several countries voted publicly "and without shame in favour of the use of force to achieve national ends."

Doctors Boycott Medical Board

SASKATCHEWAN (CP)—Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said yesterday the provincial government has been trying for months to get some doctors in the province to serve on a proposed medical care insurance commission.

Dr. Dalgleish added that the CCF government has been unsuccessful so far.

NO VOLUNTEERS
Dr. Dalgleish said that many doctors in the province had been approached to sit on the commission which would administer the medical plan proposed by the government. He said none of them had accepted.

Dr. Dalgleish said it would be surprising to him if any doctor had accepted in view of the sentiments they expressed this summer when the college set December temperatures of

'Gunboat Policy' Irks Iraq

LONDON (UPI)—A wartime-like blackout shrouds the mission and movements of a British task force sent to the Mideast despite growing convictions here that the urgent operation had averted a new crisis over Kuwait.

The government of Iraq, which long has coveted the oil-rich sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf, protested to the United Nations against what it called Britain's "traditional gunboat policy."

Iraqi Foreign Minister Hashim Jawad, in a letter sent to United Nations headquarters in New York, said the "aggressive movements" by the British threaten the peace and security of the Middle East. He charged the concentration of planes, troops and warships in the Persian Gulf was designed to maintain Britain's "position of political and economic domination of the region and its protection of its illegitimate imperialistic interests" there.

The British foreign and defence ministries refused to comment on the military movements. An aircraft carrier, two frigates, a tank landing ship and 3,000 men were dispatched from Kenya and other British bases in a Christmas alert of units of the strategic reserve, Britain's highly mobile trouble-shooting force.

Observers noted that the movement came after Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassam repeated claims that Kuwait belonged to Iraq.

Kuwait was granted independence by Britain last June. Two weeks later British forces poured in by air and sea after Kassam threatened to invade the tiny country which provides Britain with more than 50 per cent of its oil.

Glacier, Snows Melting

STEWART, B.C. (CP)—After suffering record snowfalls of up to 50 feet, the population of the little Alaska community of Hyder—approximately 35 persons—is getting ready to evacuate to this British Columbia town in the face of a rising flood threat.

Hyder is situated on tidal flats at the head of the Portland Canal but at the lower end of the Salmon River, some 90 miles north of Prince Rupert. Stewart is just a few miles to the east.

Hyder found itself in the path of rising waters of the Salmon, fed by a glacier-fed lake which normally drains northward to Bowser Lake but which now is pouring its outflow southward into the river.

CLIMED MINES
The situation has been worsening since before Christmas. Water rushing down a road from the overflowing river has closed out operations at the Silbak Premier Mines.

Reports from the Hyder area reaching here said it was feared the river would widen out to about a mile and continue a rising flood for seven miles to the north of its normal course, completely isolating the Alaska state highway on the east bank and isolating Hyder.

Excessive snowfall during November and December is blamed for the floods. Snowfall at Hyder Stewart and Hyder were measured at more than 18 feet, with 30 feet being recorded at Premier, B.C.—a record for the area. After the snows came a mild spell which permitted melting of the glacier.

Vatican Qualifies Church Unity Idea

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano, commenting on the recent assembly of the World Council of Churches, said yesterday Christian unity can only be realized through a Catholic-type hierarchy presided over by an infallible authority.

This front page comment was the first authoritative Vatican statement on the assembly in New Delhi. World Council membership includes major Protestant and Orthodox churches.

L'Osservatore said the New Delhi meeting had drawn up a definition of Christian unity that "constituted a real progress" but remained "a still far-off ideal."

In its definition of unity, the World Council said unity is made clear when all who are baptized and believe in Jesus Christ unite in common prayer and in a Christian community.

RCAF Pilots War 'Spectators'

OTTAWA (CP)—After years of training, an RCAF jet fighter pilot may never get a chance to press his firing button even under war conditions.

The button probably would be pressed for him by remote control from the ground.

This is only one—and far from the major—advantage of a new communications system

if the air defence system known as Data-Link.

Data-Link probably represents the greatest advance in the interceptor business since the discovery of radar.

RCAF headquarters said Thursday the RCAF's 66 CF-101 Voodoo jet interceptors are being equipped with Data-Link. One squadron of super-sonic CF-101s is already operational and the other four will be in full readiness by the end of next summer.

Under the present—and much too slow—system of intercepting hostile aircraft, operators at radar stations plot manually target aircraft and friendly interceptors and their information is transmitted by voice through radio from the ground radar station.

The largest number of interceptors a radar operator can handle at one time is five with this system.

Data-Link can channel information to 300 interceptors every 15 seconds.

Data-Link has been made possible through the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) electronic control system.

By means of Data-Link, this information is channelled to the cockpit of the interceptor where a series of numbers understood by the pilot are displayed.

The pilot merely follows the commands shown in front of him by the Data Link receiver to reach his target.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Ringworm, a nasty skin disease, can be cured by a new pill discovered in Britain.

It is an antibiotic named griseofulvin, which the patient swallows. It makes its way into the bloodstream, and from there to the skin, where it kills the fungi that are growing there—a kind of microscopic mushroom garden.

The medicine itself is made from a fungus. According to British Information Service, griseofulvin is a product of a green mould found, for example, on the skin of rotten oranges.

Discovered in 1939, it has been used against fungus diseases in plants. Now, mysteriously, the scientists have learned that the stuff is good against ringworm in people.

May Remain Untold

How did they find this out? British Information Service does not tell us.

Was it a case of a brave scientist hazarding his life to conquer the scourge of ringworm? Did the experimenter deliberately give himself ringworm by rubbing cheeks with an infected mouse, and then swig down one chemical compound after another just to see whether any of them would do any good?

Or was there a laboratory hand who just happened to contract ringworm, and had the habit of moving from one test tube to another, sampling the contents—until by a happy coincidence he guzzled a flask of griseofulvin? Or did he just happen to bite into a rotten orange?

This little drama of medicine may remain untold. I doubt that they will ever make a movie about the discovery of a cure for ringworm. However, it is good news. All the same.

Ringworm is no joke. I caught it at least twice as a child, from fondling cats and it made me come out in unpleasant itching blotches.

A Social Disgrace

Far worse than the physical annoyance of ringworm, however, was the shadow of moral shame that went with it. Somehow I got the feeling that it was a social disgrace to catch ringworm; that the disease implied uncleanness.

As a matter of fact, it seems to me that there was a certain amount of disgrace in catching anything.

People spoke of tuberculosis in hushed tones—as some people speak of cancer now. Out there in the dark world, all kinds of germs—from leprosy to barber's itch—lay waiting to feed upon the unwary.

This wasn't long ago, comparatively speaking. Some of these much-feared diseases had already been conquered, or were on the verge of defeat. And yet, much of the old horror and disgrace clung to their names.

Then times changed dramatically. Almost every year brought news of some victory over a dread disease. Some cures came so rapidly that doctors learned about them in their own waiting rooms.

Ringworm is the latest one to go. I won't miss it.

One-Sided Histamine Headache Cured by Injecting Small Doses

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wonder if my trouble is a histamine headache. It is always on the left side, close to my eye, it occurs about once a week and the eyes appear reddened.

These nearly always begin at night and continue until the afternoon. If it is a histamine headache, are injections necessary for each attack, or could it be cured completely?—Mrs. E. H.

That's a good description of the histamine type of headache—one-sided, localized behind the eye, eyes red and watering, onset of the attack coming at night. The headache is the body's reaction to its inability to tolerate the release of histamine by the body's cells.

The treatment is a desensitization process—injecting very dilute amounts of histamine so the system can develop more tolerance. Then the amounts are gradually increased until full tolerance is reached.

You do not have the injections at the time of each headache.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 14-year-old daughter who uses so much black pepper I'm sure it will harm her. When she has an egg you can't even see it for the seasoning—Mrs. J.L.

Your daughter has a distorted sense of flavor. Probably she'll get over it—and it's not unlikely she's using more pepper than she really wants or likes, just because you tell her not to.

Tell her people who know their way around in smart restaurants are very careful not to use too much seasoning because it destroys the true flavor of good food.

Dear Mr. Molner: May I have some information on lesser, rhea? Is there any possibility of permanent cure?—Mrs. A.K.

Most certainly a possibility. It depends, however, on find-

Katanga Police Killed in Fray

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI)—At least two Katanga gendarmes were killed and another was wounded yesterday when fighting broke out between Katanga forces and Swedish troops of the United Nations.

A senior Swedish UN officer, in announcing the outbreak, said there were no UN casualties in the exchange of fire in the eastern part of the city.

The fighting broke an uneasy calm which has prevailed in the city under the tacit hold-fire agreement between UN and Katanga forces.

It was the third and most serious incident in two days. The United Nations confirmed a Swedish patrol had arrested Katanga Justice Minister Valentin Ilunga "by mistake" and promptly released him. Later four Swedish troops were arrested by the Katangans.

The Swedish officer said the gunfire exchange occurred when the UN troops on patrol approached an African quarter of the city. He said the Katanga gendarmes opened fire, and the Swedes retaliated in self-defence.

UN and Katanga patrols have been operating jointly in the African quarters at the request of Katanga and European residents to halt looting. UN officials denied Ilunga

Alberta Will Probe 'Save' Woman's Plea

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning said yesterday the provincial government is setting up a special committee to look into the appeal of a Calgary woman to be released from the Ponoka Mental Hospital.

Patricia Brooks, 28, was committed to the mental hospital after her acquittal by reason of insanity last May 17 of the murder of Mrs. Emily Worman of Calgary.

Earlier this month Mrs. Brooks appealed directly to Alberta Lieutenant-Governor Percy Page for her release from Ponoka. In a rare personal petition, Mrs. Brooks said that "in the opinion of my

Contest Winners

Yule Lights Pay Off In Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Simister at 1851 Meredith Road, Nanaimo, has been named the best decorated residence in the 1961 Christmas campaign.

Duncan Contest Success

DUNCAN—Enthusiastic response of Duncan residents to this year's Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Duncan and District Junior Chamber of Commerce totalled 93 entries, well over the expected quota of 80 and in strong contrast to only three entries three years ago.

JUDGING HARDER

Chairman of the contest committee, George Schmidt, said judging was much harder than last year.

RESIDENTIAL SECTION

First and second winners in the residential section were: Decorated doorway, T. Pringle, 961 Government Street, and Frank Potts, 1014 Nagle Street. Decorated window, Mrs. Loretta Fugate, Grieve Road, and H. J. Langlois, 371 York Road. Floodlit scene, Mrs. Betty Brown, 2500 Alexander Street, and Mrs. Norah Odgaard, 2964 George Street. Open class for limited lights, Mrs. P. Posti, 1072 Philip Street, and Kenneth Smith, 951 Government Street.

OPEN CLASS

In the open class for unlimited lights a perpetual trophy was won by Herbert Gray, 6114 Allington Road, and an honorary mention went to J. D. Hirst, 311 Cypress Street.

Commercial class winner was Garner Builders' Supplies Ltd., which will receive a perpetual trophy, with Carter's Music and Studio runner up.

PRIZEGIVING

Winners will receive prizes donated by local merchants at the next Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 3.

Thieves Active In Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Burglars hit many Nanaimo homes over the Christmas weekend, and Wednesday night two more houses were broken into. A small amount of money and some liquor are missing.

Long-Distance Hellos Set Christmas Record

NANAIMO—An all-time record for the placing of Christmas Day long distance calls has been set this year in Nanaimo.

B.C. Telephones in the hub city completed over 5,100 long distance calls.

Officials said many of the calls placed were trans-oceanic.

Boat Adrift

Ferry Saves Man

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. government ferry MV Chinook rescued a man late Thursday when a 28-foot pleasure boat encountered engine trouble and went adrift off Parksville.

The Chinook, running from Vancouver to Nanaimo, spotted the disabled vessel and picked up its lone occupant, Norman Headynjuk of Nanaimo. Search and rescue officials failed to yield right of way.

Failed to Yield Right of Way

DUNCAN—Pleading guilty to failing to yield right of way to another car, John Wilson of Duncan was fined $20.

Father, Son Hurt In Car Collision

DUNCAN—Local man, Walter Turner and his small son, Billy, 7, were taken to King's Daughters Hospital after their car was in collision with a vehicle driven by William Hawkes of Duncan at the intersection of Trans Canada Highway and Fisher Road.

Mr. Turner was treated for shock and his son suffered concussion and a nose injury. Both were reported in fair condition. Damage was estimated at $700.

Police Probe Man's Death

NANAIMO—RCMP in Nanaimo are investigating the sudden death of a 53-year-old man.

Charles Harvey Bradley of 110 Ashlar Street was visiting friends in the Terminal Hotel when he became ill and died. The death is believed due to natural causes, but police say investigations will continue.

Land Levies in Nanaimo Boosted by $1,000,000

NANAIMO—Land assessments have jumped in Nanaimo as a result of the new provincial government policy of taking the assessment of 50 per cent on the current market value of land.

BRIGHTER SIDE

The boost in the city itself runs up to about $1,000,000.

This was disclosed yesterday by city assessor Ted Anderson.

Great Britain recorded one death from diphtheria in 1959, compared with 3,156 in 1941.

Tofino Boy Recovers

TOFINO—Dwayne Parker, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Parker, who fell from his bicycle here and was taken to hospital unconscious, has made a quick recovery. He was released yesterday.

All over B.C., more and more people are putting their stamp of approval on O'Keefe Old Vienna.

The Bustard May Pursue the Peewits

By TED PULFORD

Some rare and not-so-rare birds are flapping their wings this morning in preparation for a wild flight through many Victoria offices, factories and stores.

Search if you like, these amazing creatures won't be found in the catalogues of ornithology, and only a few enlightened psychologists have noted their passing at all.

They are to be found, exclusively, at office parties.

The Doleful Bustard: A scrawny bird with a bald pate in the adult state. It works most of the year in a credit department where it has been given charge of the ledger.

Whiffins feed heavily on canapés and make a superior sort of 'ch! ch! ch!' sound which other birds find highly amusing.

The Raucous Grackle: Appearing over-stuffed even in the live state, this specimen spends most of its time outdoors selling the company's products or giving "pep talks."

Plumage becomes ruffled with drink; loud cry sounds very much like "Didja hear the one..." Extremely uncomfortable anywhere but the centre of the room.

Grackles have an instinctive dislike for Due Billed Whiffins.

The Tittering Peewit: A tiny, fleet-footed bird, with gay plumage which becomes bedraggled under the influence of spirits. Peewits become very noisy at office parties.

They sound a shrill "Tee! Hee! Hee!", without apparent reason and some species can be made to perch on the lap of a Raucous Grackle.

The Doleful Bustard: Some authorities believe this bird to be a cross between a Buzzard and a Vulture. During most of the New Year's party, the Bustard is absolutely silent.

Large quantities of liquor have been known to make a Bustard chase one or more Tittering Peewits behind the filing cabinet, but the Peewit's piercing shrieks soon drive it off. The Doleful Bustard is sometimes confused with the Bald Eagle.

The Leather-Patched Nerringbome: The only bird at an office party to elicit a tone of respect from a Doleful Bustard. Carries slide rule in breast pocket and answers all direct questions with, "H-m-m-m-m."

The Long-Legged Blather: Easily identified because of all the birds—this one's mouth

remains open whether feeding or not. Knows all hoary songs which it bellows loudly and off-key. Delights in leading Tittering Peewits in "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The Craven Blat: Hovers around Doleful Bustards, lighting their cigarettes, pouring drinks and cawing "Yes, Boss! Yes, Boss!"

More and more local business firms are deciding office parties are for the birds.

Midnight Ceremony At City Hall

Mayor Percy Scurrah will hand over the reins of civic government to mayor-elect B. B. Wilson at midnight New Year's Eve.

The symbolic act will take place immediately after Mayor Scurrah presides a hallion to flood the front of city hall with light, to light four cluster-light candelabra outside the hall, and to usher in Victoria's centennial year.

Scurrah Says Goodbye In Moving Ceremony

His voice breaking with emotion, Mayor Percy Scurrah made a formal farewell to his council yesterday.

The incident happened during a 10-minute council meeting called so solemn could make presentations to Mr. Scurrah and Mrs. Scurrah. Mrs. Scurrah sat by her husband's side during the presentations.

"VERY PRECIOUS" "I feel that I am retiring... that I am leaving with every one of you my friend," he said. "That will always be very precious to me."

Mr. Scurrah paid tribute to his wife in his speech. It was then that his voice broke.

Mayor Percy Scurrah assist in removal of the first power pole from the downtown area. Mayor Scurrah and city lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid welded a cross-cut saw long enough to make a shallow cut in the base of the pole. It was pulled clear by a mobile hoist.

The pole, at the northwest corner of the intersection, was the first of more than 200 poles to be removed from the 30-block area bounded by Government, Belleville, Blanshard and Herald Streets.

Together with the poles, B.C. Electric workers will remove 48 miles of overhead wiring. It is the final phase of a $3,500,000 project to bury all downtown wiring under ground.

"It has been said, and how true it is, that behind every successful man is a good woman. I certainly have a wonderful wife."

"She has been of tremendous assistance to me."

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson presented Mrs. Scurrah with a silver compact.

"PROUD OF YOU" "For the past six years you have carried out the duties of the mayor's wife with dignity and thoughtful consideration. We were always proud of you," she said.

Ald. Arthur Dowell presented Mr. Scurrah with a silver candelabra on behalf of the council.

Parking Most Pressing

Mayor Lists City Problems

Most pressing problem facing the 1962 city council is solving of the downtown parking problem, Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday.

"I know you will solve it," he told council. "I hope you will immediately finalize the parking commission."

Mayor Scurrah was referring to the $1,115,000 bylaw approved Aug. 31 by downtown property owners, planned to provide two off-street parking garages in the downtown area, to hold a total of 600 cars.

He made the comment during a special meeting of city council held to honor him. All aldermen on this year's council will be members of the 1962 council.

ANOTHER PROBLEM "Another problem you are going to have before you is urban renewal. That is extremely important to the city."

Father Acts Fast

Family of 11 Flees From Blazing Home

By ERITH M. SMITH

A Chinese family of 11 was left homeless late yesterday when flames swept through their home at 1251 Craigflower Road.

Quick action by Joe Lee, father of the six children in the house, prevented any injury or loss of life.

DRIVEN BACK

At about 5:30 p.m. his sister, Mrs. Nickson Lee, saw smoke seeping around the door to the basement. Mr. Lee's mother opened the door, and was driven back by a burst of flames from below.

At once Mr. Lee rounded up the rest of his family—his children, wife, mother, sister and brother-in-law—and they fled the house with what clothing and small belongings they could gather.

FLAMES MENT RACING

An alarm was turned in by a neighbor, and View Royal volunteer firemen responded.

Fire Chief Al Beasley said the 51-year-old house was in excellent condition, but that the cedar, fir and heavy wallpaper of the interior sent flames racing through the ground floor.

SPREAD CHECKED

Firemen were able to check the spread of fire to most of the upper part of the house, although flames broke through the roof at one point after climbing up through the wall. Damage to house and contents was estimated at from

Start Urged On City 'Copter Pad

Immediate construction of a $2,500 emergency landing pad for helicopters is being sought by Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of city public works committee.

"Being on an island, I feel we just cannot afford not to have every type of transport facility available, particularly with Century 21 being held in Seattle next year," he said.

"We're the only city in Canada that hasn't got a spot for helicopters to set down and that's not good enough for the capital city of B.C."

He added that the city would gain tremendous publicity as it would be marked on all aviation maps. Ald. Edgewood wants the pad built on the Victoria West industrial reserve.

City Offices To Close

Municipal and provincial government offices will be closed both Monday and Tuesday next week.

Municipal and city offices will be observing the two-day holiday in keeping with a recommendation by the interim municipal committee.

$4,000 to $5,000. It is believed only the building itself was insured. Neighbors took the Lee family in after the fire, which was extinguished in about 30 minutes, and gave them supper. Four of the children, ranging from less than a year to about 5, with their mother, grandmother and aunt, were given shelter for the night by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Salmon, 945 Dellwood.

$3,000,000 Hotel Talk Turns Out Just Rumor

No heads was found yesterday for reports of a $3,000,000 hotel being planned for the site where the Monterey Restaurant was destroyed by fire recently.

Mrs. Maurice Wincure, whose husband owns the corner property, said last night she knew nothing of the rumor and that they are still hoping to rebuild the restaurant if financing can be arranged.

Visiting Groups Empress-Bound

The Empress Hotel will play a major role in bringing convention groups to Victoria in 1962.

Prudential Insurance Company of America, whose delegates cannot be accommodated at one time, will be divided into three groups of 450 delegates each over a period of 12 days.

Similarly, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company will be divided into two groups of 400 each.

Teachers Seek Better Link

Teachers in Greater Victoria want to bring school trustees into closer touch with what is going on in the classroom.

A request from Greater Victoria Teachers' Association for setting up of a permanent liaison committee composed of teachers and trustees has already received a sympathetic hearing.

The school board at its final meeting for 1961 indicated approval of the request and referred it to the incoming board.

Teachers feel that in a school

to be dealt with at the January meeting.

In the past there have been occasional liaison meetings between teachers and trustees, said a GVTA spokesman, but the committee thus formed had no official status.

"We want something more definite," the teacher spokesman said. "Right now the only group which meets regularly with the school board is our agreements committee."

Boat Fire Victim?

Boy's Body Washed On Beach

By JACK FREY

MYSTERY of a fire-gutted outboard boat found off Ten Mile Point Wednesday took a gruesome turn last night when the body of a two-year-old boy was washed ashore in the vicinity.

If police establish a link between the death of the unidentified boy and the burned boat, it suggests that tragedy also may have befallen the child's mother and father.

Body of a boy with "almost Indian facial characteristics" was washed ashore near the foot of Vantright Lane at St. Margaret Bay in Gordon Head.

LOOKED LIKE DOLL.

It was found shortly after 5 p.m. by R. J. Bishop, 4631 Vantright, who was strolling along the beach. "I thought it was a doll," he said.

Only theory advanced at press time was Sanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson's opinion that an Indian family may have been crabbing when a pitch pot in the bow upset, causing extensive damage to that part of the 16-foot craft.

FIRE IN BOW

Indian chiefs in the Greater Victoria area agreed that Indians frequently light fires in the bows of their boats while crabbing in shallow water.

David Elliott, a former chief of the West Sanich Reserve, said he saw a photograph of the boat Frannie M in yesterday's Colonist and was of the opinion it came from somewhere between the San Juan Islands and Port Angeles on the American side of the Strait.

MOTOR IN WELL.

The outboard motor was attached to a well in the floor of the flat-bottomed boat instead of the stern. It is a common position in Washington. British Columbian Indians seldom mount a motor in that manner, he said.

The Colonist immediately telephoned a description of the boy's clothing to the U.S. Coast Guard search and rescue centre in Seattle, where a spokesman said further checks would be made from the American side.

BOAT ADRIFT

The partially burned boat was found drifting off Ten Mile Point at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday. RCAF search and rescue officials in Vancouver said they first learned about it at 6:15 p.m. the same day, when the Colonist called for information.

The official was concerned that search and rescue had not been notified during the morning. "You know there could have been someone clinging to a log or floundering about wearing a lifejacket," he was quoted as saying.

DEAD COUPLE DAYS

The child's body was taken to Santa funeral home. Chief Pearson said the boy appeared to have been dead for "a couple of days—not long."

The child's skin was white but it had a "wide, flat face, almost Indian characteristics," he said.

The body was well clothed and the seat of an outer, quilted nylon garment appeared to have been damaged by fire.

Clothing was described as a diaper covered with yellow plastic pants, a green and white, horizontal-striped sweater, blue cardigan sweater, the nylon outer garments, pink and white striped socks and scuffed but nearly new white leather boots with hard soles.

Practically Ashore

Girl Loses Arms To Savage Shark

MACKAY, Australia (UPI)—A 10-foot-long shark savagely mauled a man and an 18-year-old girl yesterday in shallow waters off this resort in east Queensland.

The couple was only 12 feet from shore when the shark attacked. An eyewitness said the shark made three rolling assaults.

Steffen tried to beat off the shark while holding on to the girl. A friend, Graham Jorgensen, raced from the beach into the water, pushed the shark away, and helped Miss Hobbs out. Steffen was able to walk out of the water despite his state of shock.

A 22-year-old man who lost his left leg in a similar attack by a shark 10 days ago died on Christmas Eve.

Vatican Qualifies Church Unity Idea

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, commenting on the recent assembly of the World Council of Churches, said yesterday Christian unity can only be realized through a Catholic-type hierarchy presided over by an infallible authority.

This front-page comment was the first authoritative Vatican statement on the assembly in New Delhi. World Council membership includes major Protestant and Orthodox churches.

L'Osservatore said the New Delhi meeting had drawn up a definition of Christian unity that "constituted a real progress" but remained "a still far-off ideal."

In its definition of unity, the World Council said unity is made clear where all who are baptized and believe in Jesus Christ unite in common prayer and in a Christian community.

After years of training, an RCAF jet fighter pilot may never get a chance to press his firm button even under war conditions.

The button probably would be pressed for him by remote control from the ground.

This is only one—and far from the major—advantage of a new communications system known as Data-Link. Under the present—and much too slow—system of intercepting hostile aircraft, operators at radar stations plot manually target aircraft and friendly interceptors and their information is transmitted by voice through radio.

Thursday the RCAF's 66 CF-101 Voodoo jet interceptors are being equipped with Data-Link. One squadron of super-sonic CF-101s is already operational, and the other four will be in full readiness by the end of next summer. The present—and much too slow—system of intercepting hostile aircraft, operators at radar stations plot manually target aircraft and friendly interceptors and their information is transmitted by voice through radio.

The largest number of interceptors a radar operator can handle at one time is five with this system.

Data-Link can channel in information to 300 interceptors

every 15 seconds.

Data-Link has been made possible through the SAGE

vironment) electronic control system.

By means of Data-Link, this information is channelled in the cockpit of the interceptor operator.
